

Newest Volumes for Children Are Listed

(By Ann L. Whitmack, Librarian)

1. Andersen—Lis Sails the Atlantic. This Danish family set sail in an 18 metre ketch and proceeded to cut a huge and exciting figure over the Atlantic. Lis describes it all — from school on board to killing a shark.
2. Collins—Fun With Electricity. Father and son alike will find this book absorbing, and instructive. It is clear and practical and above all real fun.
3. Daniels—Ships of the Seven Seas. Ships—old and new—big and little—sailing and steam—a sting of salt—spray—and sharp crack of rigging on taut canvas. A book for all ages and one that will stand re-reading.
5. Lewis—Beowulf, Guide Dog to the Blind. Beowulf began his career as a trained German frontier-guard's dog and was later sold to a tourist, then trained in France. A very interesting dog story.
4. Knapp—Story of Our Constitution. A readable book of special interest at this time to every American boy and girl.
6. Weymouth—What Plane Is That? Covers all the latest plane designs. A valuable book for boys and men. Members of the Explorers' club are reminded that their maps and reading lists are due at the library August 25 and may be turned in any time now if the required number has been read.
