STOLP PICNIC

The children at the Stol playground had a picnic Wednesday and plan a picnic for each Wednesday. The children are busy with handicraft, painting slates, making hot pad holders, bead bracelets and baskets.

There is to be a doll buggy parade and a wagon parade Friday (tomorrow) at 11 a. m.

BICYCLE HIKE

The senior boys and girls of the village green went on a bicycle hike to the Riverside forest preserve. They left about 9:30 o'clock in the morning and returned at 4 p. m. Another bicycle hike is planned for the junior boys and girls this week.

LANTERN PARADE

The children of the village green playground held a gay lantern parade last week. Sixty-five boys and girls dressed in red capes and each carrying a gay lantern paraded through the village last Wednesday evening.

PICNIC

The village green boys and girls entertained the Vattman park playground at a joint picnic at the village green Thursday. There is to be another picnic at the village green today.

Mrs. Daniel Stecker of 423 Eighth street left Saturday for Seattle on her way to Alaska. Her sister, Miss Wilmer Kinnan of New York, is traveling with her. Mrs. Stecker will do missionary work while she is traveling, returning in the fall in time for the missionary convention which takes place in Seattle this year.

Activities Now in Full Swing at Vattman Pk.

Activities at Vattman park playground are in full swing. The attendance is regular and the playground is alive with children playing in some organized group game.

The youngest member is about 15 months old and the oldest 15 years. Even some of the boys and girls who have out-grown the park membership in years still come back to play in ball games with the younger ones.

The daily program for juniors is free play, from 9 to 10. Handicraft from 10 to 11, beginners rhythmic and tap dancing classes from 11 to 11:30; intermediate tap from 11:30 to 12. In the afternoon handicraft from 1 to 2:30, 2:30 to 3 dramatics, and 3 to 4 various ball games.

Cut Dresses

In handicraft several dresses have been cut out, designed at the playground and patterns cut there. Sun suits and aprons have also been started.

Raffia baskets seem to have a special appeal this summer and need cannot be soaked fast enough to supply the demand. The waste paper basket bases will be ready this week.

Costume Play

The first week a special play in costume was given. It was the "Pied Piper of Hamelin." Two shorter plays were given another day—"The Rabbit and the Cabbages" and "The Rabbit at the Wishing Well."

The parade on Wednesday was a lot of fun. Many children wore costumes, and those who did not, wore paper hats made at the playground.

The village green playground sent an invitation to the Vattman children to join them in a weiner roast on Thursday noon. Of course all wanted to go, so, despite the intense heat, about 50 children hiked up to the village green for lunch.

Kickball teams are being organized and basegall is in full swing.

Pet Show

The big event of the week was the pet show held Wednesday evening (yesterday). Ribbon winners and prize winners will be announced next week. The recreation board, according to Daniel M. Davies, director, received gifts for many additional prizes which were donated by Chicago and north shore firms.

The tennis courts at Vattman park have been turned over to the recreation board in the mornings for free play of the children registered at the playground. Free instruction is given every morning from 10 to 12.

The warm days of last week made the wading pool at Vattman park a very popular place.

Poster material has been distributed and the children are busy making posters for the village-wide poster contest to be held next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Koenen, returned to their home in Duparquet, Canada, after a two weeks' visit with the J. C. Koenen family of Wilmette. Adelaide Koenen accompanied them home. She will spend several weeks there, and visiting Canadian points of interest.

By The Master Gardener

June ushered in the summer period for your lawn, and a trying period it is, too—one that leaves its mark on many lawns that up to now have presented a picture of beauty and have been shining examples of "How the Well Kept Lawn Should Look."

With the hot weather coming on, these are the things to remember:

Cut the lawn high. Never clip shorter than 1½ inches in the summer. Why? Because too close cutting exposes the crown of the grass plants to the hot sun, and because continual close cutting results in a decreased root system that cannot adequately support a vigorous top growth. I wish I could reproduce for you in this article pictures of an experiment showing the detrimental effects of close cutting of lawns.

If you feel that it is necessary to water during dry periods, give the lawn a good soaking once or twice weekly; never be guilty of giving frequent light sprinklings, as this causes the roots to grow near the surface where they are subjected to more heat, and where they do not find a good food supply.

Remove all crab grass plants and other troublesome weeds as soon as they appear. If your lawn is badly infested with crab grass, rake it before each mowing, so that the seed heads will be brought within reach of the mower blade and prevent plants from maturing seed.
