Three Doctors Go Fishing; They're Brothers, Answer to Name "Magill"

Reunion in Wilmette Precedes Northern Expedition

An interesting family reunion that began in Wilmette, is being extended to the wilds of the National forest in northern Michigan and the broad waters of Lake Superior, and will reconvene in Wilmette for its reluctant close, is a major item of news this week.

Dr. George P. Magill and Mrs. Magill, 1011 Lake avenue, have as their guests two brothers of Dr. Magill and their wives, it being the first time in many years that the couples have been together. The brothers, of which Dr. Magill is the eldest, are all natives of Lewistown, Ill., where their father, Dr. J. F. Magill, was for twenty-one years pastor of the Presbyterian church.

From Washington, Pa., on Monday came Dr. Charles D. Magill, dentist, and Mrs. Magill, former residents of Springfield and Jacksonville, Ill., where Dr. Magill practiced his profession for many years. He is now retired.

Dr. Frank S. Magill and Mrs. Magill arrived at the same time, from Chambersburg, Pa., the journey having been made by automobile. Twenty years ago this Dr. Magill established the Penn-Howe private school, a junior college for girls, which he still conducts, and which has achieved an outstanding success. The degree of L.L.D. was conferred upon him by Washington-Jefferson University.

Dr. George P. Magill and Mrs. Magill have been residents of Wilmette for the past twenty years. During fifteen years of that period he was minister of the First Presbyterian church. Upon completion of his pastorate he retired and has since been engaged in other activities. He is frequently called upon to officiate at weddings and funeral services, and for platform appearances. He is a staunch advocate of Americanism and is especially interested in anti-subversive movements.

Early Tuesday morning the three couples left by automobiles for Alligator Point, a popular resort on Lake Gogebic, in the upper stretches of the northern peninsula of Michigan, in the National forest. There they will spend two weeks in enjoyment of their favorite sport, fishing, the women members being reported to be as expert at angling as their husbands. The spot chosen

Too Many Arthurs in Crew; Skipper Finds a Solution

Byron H. Knapp, Jr., 1004 Pontiac road, Wilmette, owner of the 36-foot yawl "Gipsy", has just returned from a week's cruise along the eastern shores of Lake Michigan. His crew consisted of Warren S. Merriam, Holland, Mich.; A. G. Stanten and son Arthur, 1014 Pontiac road, Wilmette; and Arthur Strand, Evanston.

Since three Arthurs made up part of the crew, Skipper Knapp realized there would be considerable confusion in giving his orders, so the following names were given: "Pop" for A. G. Stanten, Sr., "Ernie" for Arthur, Jr., and "Butch" for Arthur Strand. Since "Warren S. Merriam" was too long, he was given the name of "Bill".

Pleasant sailing weather was encountered during the entire trip although the sea on three days was so rough that it was thought inadvisable to use the mainsail.

Car Gone Out of Whack Resembles Bucking Bronc

Early Tuesday afternoon as Mrs. W. J. Cook, Glen Oak Acres, Glenview, was driving her car west on Lake avenue, it suddenly plunged off the road, continued for a distance on the shoulder, then back onto the road, and in front of 2801 Lake avenue again left the road, turned completely over and stopped. Police investigating the affair report that the steering gear apparently went out of commission. Mrs. Cook, suffering from shock, was removed to Evanston hospital. She was not otherwise injured. Some damage to the car resulted.

CORRECTION

Through a typographical error, the name G. Howard Canniff was rendered G. Howard Banniff in last week's issue.

is 400 miles north, Nearenisco being the nearest post office.

Pursuit of the finny tribe will lead them to various points of that wild section, including the copper country. After working the streams for trout and the lakes for muskies and wall-eyed pike, they will proceed to Lake Superior for the exciting sport of deep water trout fishing.
