

TO LECTURE IN OHIO

Anita Willets Burnham, 1407 Tower road, Hubbard Woods, will give her well known lecture "Around the World on a Penny" Friday, December 16, before an audience in Youngstown, Ohio. Mrs. Burnham's painting and traveling has brought her prominence in the lecture field, and into authorship for she has written a book on the same subject.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Monday afternoon Police Officers John Henrickson and Cullen Branscome responded to a call from the Chicago and North Western railway passenger station, where they found Kenneth Hooker, 29, of 1319 Estes avenue, Chicago, who had fainted and fallen backward, striking his head on the brick pavement. He was taken to Evanston hospital in the police ambulance.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

MRS. WILLIAM J. BABINGTON MACAULAY

From the Girl Scout national headquarters comes word that it was shocked to be notified on Thanksgiving Day of the sudden death in Rome, Italy, of Mrs. William J. Babington Macaulay, chairman of the board of directors. The message went on to say: "Her passing removes a beloved personal friend and officer whose wise administration for many years has been of inestimable value. Her interests were numerous and her unselfish devotion to the welfare of youth has been acknowledged with the highest honors. Girl Scouting was always close to her heart, and she strove on every occasion to further international friendship. Girl Scouts and Girl Guides throughout the world may well say, "We have lost a friend."

Troop 7

On Thursday, December 15, Troop 7, composed of eighth grade girls with Mrs. Earle Lyon, leader, will have a progressive dinner.

Troop 6

The high school girls of Troop 6, under Mrs. Paul Dowling, are collecting toys to give to the Wilmette firemen who are repairing them at the station house ready for distribution at Christmas time. Troop 6 is also planning to join with the Congregational church in carolling Christmas eve. For this they plan to have a truck decorated with some Christmas theme which can carry the girls the length and breadth of the village.

Troop 9

On Thursday, December 1, the girls of Troop 9 started work on some cotton stocking dolls. Each doll is made of a stocking cut and sewed into a body, arms, and legs. Cotton is then stuffed through a small slit at the neck. A head is made out of the toe of the stocking stuffed with cotton to about the size of a tennis ball. At our next meeting, December 8, we sewed on the heads and made wigs and dresses. Some of the troop had brought scraps of brights material for making dresses. At our last meeting before the holidays, we will embroider eyes and mouths and finish the dolls. A few days before Christmas the dolls will be given to the Rotary club, our sponsors, and be put in their Christmas baskets.

The Rotary club has invited us to attend a Christmas luncheon party at Shawnee, December 21, at 12 o'clock, for which we are to dress in full uniform. Barbara McNeill, Scribe

STYLE SHOW

Last Friday night, December 9, at the Congregational church, the Girl Scouts of Troop 6 held a fashion show open to all to raise money for their troop. Marshall Field and Company donated the clothes for a "Round the Clock" exhibit, displaying their latest stock of school, afternoon, evening and sport clothes. Even the newest thing in Girl Scout uniforms was modeled. They also set each model's hair at their own expense. Mrs. E. Nord and Miss Poole, from Marshall Fields' dress shop, selected the costumes for each of the ten girls in the show. Helen Sweeny, Pat Symons, Barbara Frei, Jane Higginbottom, Sue Lyon, Laura Senness, Betty Beck, Joan Benner, Jeanne DeBerard, Nancy Dunn were the Girl Scouts who acted as models.

The Girl Scouts wish to thank the California Fruit Company for the Christmas trees used as decoration for the stage, and the Hlavacek Florists for the ferns. The girls also wish to thank Mrs. W. Benner for her fine accompaniment during the show.—Jeanne DeBerard, Scribe
