Giving of French Honor Highlight at Alumnae Tea

Highlight at the Chicago and Lake Forest Sacred Heart Alumnae tea at Barat college in Lake Forest next Sunday afternoon will be the presentation of a French governmental honor to Mother du Cor, head of the French department of the college. Presentation will be made by Rene Weiller, French consul in Chicago.

The honor, Officier d'Academie, is being presented Mother du Cor for her outstanding contribution to French education in the United States. It was founded by Napoleon I, and its purple ribbon is granted as an award for French arts, science or education, and is regarded the most international decoration in the world today. The conference of the medal upon Mother du Cor is regarded doubly interesting, according to Monsieur Weiller, who states that very few of the sisterhood have been so honored. Also noted by the his granting the award was the fact that Frenchmen had figured so largely in the exploration of the mid-west country, and the pleasure the French government experienced upon being able to make this award to a person in this section of the country.

Joseph LeBlanc, professor of French at Loyola University, will speak at the tea in place of Charles DuBos of the teaching staff of Notre Dame university, whose last minute illness caused him to cancel arrangements of his appearance at the tea.

Mrs. Leo P. Cummings, herself an alumna of the Sacred Heart, will pour at the tea, and will be assisted by her two daughters, Josephine and Helen, who are now students at the Lake Forest school.

Cook County Clubs Announce Program

"Schools of Today and Tomorrow—Do We Know Them—Can We Vision Them," will be the subject, with other educational problems, which will be discussed in the report of the year's work of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs which will hold the final meeting of the year Monday, April 17, in the Auditorium hotel at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. Col. Roy F. Farrand, president of St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis., will be a speaker. His talk will be on "Disloyal Propaganda in Our Public School System."

Colonel Farrand states that inspired unAmericanism has made great inroads in the university circles and is now creeping into high schools and elementary schools.

The luncheon hour at 12:15, will be followed by a humorous note when Wallace Bruce Amsbary, lecturer, poet, and author, will discuss, "The Value of the Sense of Humor," and Mrs. Estella Crook Cain, material writer and humorist, will read two of her own writings.

The program will be concluded with Mrs. Elmer B. Jones, chairman, speaking on "International Affairs, a Swiftly Changing Scene."
