

Over the Top Is Kenilworth Village Chest

Figures Show That 82 Per Cent of Families Subscribe to Wel- fare Fund

The top of the thermometer used in the bulletins sent out to captains and workers of the Kenilworth community chest drive was blown off early this week with the announcement that $10,988.65 had been subscribed.

Of the 650 families in the village, pledges had been received on Monday morning from 531 with an average subscription of $20.70 per family. About 82 per cent of the families of the community are represented in chest supporters.

Walter Botthof, 156 Abingdon avenue, chairman of the campaign committee stated that he was issuing a bulletin to all captains, co-captains, and workers this week in which he thanked them for their enthusiastic cooperation with and loyalty to the cause.

Pleased at Success

"The members of the executive board," he added, "are pleased beyond measure at the success of the initial community chest campaign. The entire campaign organization has expressed its grateful thanks to the residents of Kenilworth who have cooperated not only by their contributions but in other ways which demonstrate their wholehearted approval of the community chest plan.

"It has been an experience in which all of us share the glory of accomplishment," he added.

"While there have been a few disappointments, in that some people have failed to subscribe and that a few have not given, perhaps, what they should, the vast majority of contributors have been very generous as indicated by the very high percentage of families throughout the village who signed pledges as well as by the high average of all subscriptions.

Expect More Pledges

"I feel sure," Mr. Botthof continued, "That those families which have not been contacted, largely because of their absence from the village during the campaign or because of the inability of workers to get around to all prospects, will want to have a part in Kenilworth's chest drive by sending in their subscriptions voluntarily.

"Charity is not something that should require the influence of salesmanship to make people realize their own responsibility. Rather it is something dictated by the heart and motivated by a desire to help one's fellow men and to be a good neighbor."

Most workers have assured Mr. Botthof that they will continue to follow up all the families that they have pledged themselves to contact. The majority of workers, he added, have only one or two cards on which no pledge or report has been made. Many workers, in response to a canvass made of the campaign organization last week report the completion of their respective assignments.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smythe, 43 Kenilworth avenue, Kenilworth, are spending Thanksgiving day and the week-end at Garden City, L. I., visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Miller, Mr. Smythe's sister and brother-in-law.

Lecturer

Vincent Sheean, globe-trotting journalist and author, will speak on "Personal History" in the third of the public lectures sponsored by Northwestern university and presented in Thorne hall on the Chicago campus. Sheean, who will discuss contemporary affairs in the light of his experience, is to appear Friday, November 24.

Born in a small Illinois town, Sheean set out shortly after his graduation from college on a tour of the world which is still going on. He was the only journalist who interviewed Abdel-Krim during the Franco-Riff war in North Africa; he became an intimate friend of Sun Yat Sen and his wife in China during the revolution; he was in Palestine when the Jewish-Arabian hostilities began.

More recently, Sheean was in Spain during the civil war and in Czechoslovakia at the time of the Munich agreement. During the summer of 1939 he was in Mexico and Central America, studying the actual extent of totalitarian penetration there.
