

N. U. Evening Classes Will Register 8,700 Students

Approximately 8,700 students will register for evening classes at Northwestern university beginning Saturday, January 27. More than 300 second semester courses will be offered in the schools of commerce and journalism and the university college.

The bulk of the registration is expected in the school of commerce, where an enrollment of more than 5,700 is anticipated. First class sessions of the new semester will be held on Wednesday evening, February 7.

A number of new courses will be given for the first time. In the school of commerce, a group of courses in transportation and traffic management will inaugurate an expanded program in this field. Included in the group will be Principles of Air Transportation, Freight Rates and Classification, and Traffic Management.

Offer Traffic Course

The Traffic Management course will be given under the direction of Stanley Berge, manager of the research and development bureau of the Illinois Central system. He will be assisted by fourteen experts in traffic control who will come to Chicago from all over the country to conduct lecture round-tables.

The university college will also inaugurate a new group of courses in its division of general education. These courses, non-technical in character, will be available with or without credit. Among them will be Speech, Language, and Thought; The Psychology of Propaganda; The Psychology of Work; and The War and European Problems.

Study Meaning of Language

Under the direction of Dr. Irving J. Lee of the speech department, students in speech, language, and thought will study the problems of semantics and the meaning of language. The course in The War and European Problems will be taught by Albert Viton, foreign correspondent and commentator, now a member of the political science faculty at Northwestern university.

The university college will also offer two seminars in civic planning, one non-technical and one for professional students, to be taught by a distinguished visiting faculty member, Dr. Eduard C. Lindeman, professor of social philosophy at New York university.

The Medill school of journalism will offer a new course in "Contemporary Affairs," to be taught by Dr. Curtis MacDougall in collaboration with Dr. Paul Hutchinson, of Winnetka, managing editor of Christian Century magazine; Irving Pflaum, foreign editor of the Chicago Daily Times; and Albert Viton.

Other new courses to be given are contemporary monetary problems, advanced personnel management, advanced time and motion study, and merchandising of home furnishings, in the school of commerce.

Scouting Chairman Reports Movement Grows in Popularity

Chief of Police Cloyd C. McGuire, chairman of the Wilmette district, North Shore Area council, Boy Scouts of America, has just revealed the progress of the Scout movement in Wilmette covering the year 1939.

Chief McGuire said:

"In Wilmette there are 384 boys, age 9, 10, and 11. Of these 138 are registered Cubs. There are also 384 boys, aged 12, 13, and 14. Of this number there are 289 Scouts, which means that there are 225 Scouts for every one hundred 12-year old boys in Wilmette.

"In addition to the boy membership, there are 59 registered and active Scouters, that is, leaders and workers in the Cubbing, Scouting and Sea Scouting program in the village. Citizens of Wilmette should feel proud of the work accomplished by these leaders and their boys and should not fail when opportunity presents itself to render a service to this movement."

Post College Group to Hold Party on Feb. 3

The Post Kollege Klub of Evanston will hold a winter formal party in the Evanston Country club on Saturday, February 3, beginning at 9 p.m. The occasion will mark a high spot in the club's social calendar. Gay Claridge and his orchestra, whose music is featured currently over the radio and at the Edgewater Beach hotel, will provide the music. Bids are open to all club members and members of the congregation and their friends and to North Shore residents. They are available through members of the club or by reservation at the First Methodist church office in Evanston.
