

Wilmette Library Displays Works of John Galsworthy

August 14 would have been John Galsworthy's 68th birthday, and the Wilmette Public library is remembering the event with a special display of his novels, plays and essays. His portraits are posted on the bulletin board.

"James Weber Linn once remarked that he didn't believe that Galsworthy would live for all time, but he did think that he was good for a hundred years," states Miss Anne Whitmack, librarian. "With this in mind we cannot afford to miss Soames Forsyte, his daughter, Fleur, Dinny Cherrill, and all the other living characters that he has created."
