Charity Pet Show, Community-Wide Event, Bigger Financial Success than Last Year

Boston Terrier, Wire-Haired, and Russian Wolfhound Judged Three Best Dogs in Show

With their Second Annual Charity Pet show the Junior auxiliary of the Woman's Club of Wilmette again has staged a community-wide event. So far we have seen no other happening in the village which surpasses the exhibit of dogs and cats, birds and fishes, in drawing out entire families by the hundreds to mingle under one roof in comradely fashion, attracted by a common interest. This neighborly feeling ran as high this fall as last. The financial success was greater this year than last.

To Dunland Aviator, the one-year old Boston terrier entered by Joan Savage of Kenilworth, goes the honor of being the best dog in the show. Second best was Rudy, two-year old wire-haired, entered by Elsie von der Lippen of Wilmette; Ranking third in the opinion of Capt. William Judy, who judged the dogs and cats, was Princess Nadja, an 18 months' old Russian wolfhound entered by Mrs. V. C. Dauber of Evanston. Among the pets whose sometimes happy, sometimes friendly, sometimes dignified faces we recognized from last year, was Jerry, the racoon, that again this season rated the award as the most unusual pet in the show. His mistress is Miss Nancy Crim of Wilmette. Best groomed among the pets was an English springer entered by Joe Zeutchel. The best trickster was entered in the mongrel class by Charles Beringer. Miss Mary Jane Cresmer of Glencoe entered the largest dog in the show, an Irish wolfhound.

Evening Garden Club Learns Points in Flower Arranging

November's much talked-of chill winds and our much predicted "hard winter," luckily not yet a reality, do not in any way lessen the ardor of the real garden enthusiast. Our garden clubs continue meeting, talking of what has been done and planning on future achievements surpassing the past. Among the liveliest of clubs is the Evening Garden club of Wilmette.

The club meet Tuesday evening, November 13, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Ewer, 1111 Ashland avenue. A short business session was conducted by the president, Harry C. Pifer. The club plans to enter an exhibit at the Annual Flower show of the Garden Club of Illinois at Navy Pier in April, and definite plans will be completed before the December meeting.

The program of the evening was in charge of Mrs. Ewer, and she spoke on the subject, "Flower Arrangement", emphasizing more especially the correct arrangements of flowers in vases in competitive exhibits. This gave her a wonderful opportunity to show beautiful flowers in beautiful vases. By clever lighting and backgrounds she illustrated most convincingly the points to be observed as to selection of flowers, colors, and color arrangement, harmony of vase with flowers, height of bouquet in relation to its container, and many other things that help win the blue ribbon.

And of course, the same rules that make a ribbon-winning bouquet beautiful apply also to any arrangement of flowers at any time, and so her talk was immensely practical.

In tracing the history of the study of flower arrangement from as far back as 1200 B. C., to the present, it seems that of all people the Japanese have given more thought, perhaps, to this subject, than others and their influence has been considerable.

The bouquets used by Mrs. Ewer to illustrate her talk were many and beautiful and she was assisted in placing them by Mrs. C. R. Bixby.

A bouquet of Christmas roses brought to the meeting by Frank R. Eager also was of especial interest. This uncommon and beautiful flower is blooming a little earlier this year.—W. C. G.

Washburne, superintendent of the Winnetka schools, will give a talk on his trip around the world during which time he studied with a number of leaders in progressive education.
