BUDDING POETS ACTIVE IN SCHOOL

Teachers' Club Reveals Composition Work of Pupils

Examples of composition work of the children in the fifth and sixth grades of the Wilmette public schools were made public this week by members of the teachers' organization.

Children of the fifth grades of the Howard school have shown an interest this year in writing poems. There is no special time set aside for this activity, it was explained. "Whenever they have an inspiration they write one and hand it in." The following are a few of the poems submitted:

MODERN WAYS

By Billy James

When the train comes roaring past the countryside;
When the plane goes roaring over the houses;
Then the children turn to look and take pictures.
Then the blimp comes slowly overhead.
Then is when the excitement comes.
All the people crowd just to see the blimp.

THE WIND

By Nadine Warner

The jolly old wind was out today
To give the leaves a merry twirl.
And since the leaves want to fall
The wind loves to tease them all.

He loves to tease the children small.
He tries to tease the big ones, too.
He blows their skirts, their hats and hair;
Now, do you think that's fair?

A TRAVELER

By Alice Kennedy

I am a traveler, gay and young.
I travel to school when school's begun.
When school is over, home I run.
To play, to jump, and to have fun.

TIGER BILL

By Virginia Mary Armstrong

I have a little kitten
Who is wooly as a mitten.
He hides his claws
Within his paws
When he's a peaceful kitten.

PICKING FLOWERS

By Bann Hasron

I walk along to school each day,
Picking flowers on the way.
I would like to see them all day long,
Smelling their fragrance and singing a song.

EGYPTIAN TEA

By John Nuzum and Phil Leekley

of Central Sixth Grade

The mothers of the children in Mrs. Julian's Central sixth grade were invited to an Egyptian tea Tuesday, November 2.

We were studying Egyptian history. Betty Johnson wanted to learn an Egyptian dance. Some of the girls got together and planned an Egyptian tea for the mothers. At our next club meeting the question was brought up. The majority voted in favor of the idea. The chairman and their committees were formed. They then read up on their subjects. The day was selected as Tuesday, November 2. The children immediately began their work. Pictures of Egypt (which were drawn by the children) decorated the walls and blackboards. The invitations were made on scrolls in Egyptian fashion.

The committee chairmen are as follows: Bud Snider, announcer of program; Phil Leekley, football; John Nuzum, entertainment; Janet McLeeland, costume; Helene Hartman, decoration and dancing; Dick Saunders, pyramid; Betty Johnson, refreshment; Murial Kirtly, slave.

Phil Corper acted as the Egyptian King watching the program—with Helen Alice Evans and Lois Anderson as fan bearers.

The dancing girls got under way with their dance and everything worked well.

Egyptian Meal

The program opened with the reading of an Egyptian scroll by Bud Snider and Phil Leekley which explained the program in full.

A miniature pyramid which was built by five boys, was then explained to the mothers. It was followed by an Egyptian football game dramatized by the boys of the room. The girls performed their dance with Dorothy Rose accompanying them on her violin.

The slaves then served lemonade and date cookies as refreshments because they were the nearest to Egyptian food which we could serve. The food was served on the Egyptian cups and plates made by the students. It was a very enjoyable afternoon for both students and mothers.

We wish to thank these people for the help they gave us: Miss Eckert, for the dance and rugs; Miss Woodley for the costumes; Miss Green, for the art work; and Mr. Ball for the construction of the pyramid.

20 Years Ago in Wilmette

November 8, 1917

The death of Dr. Byron C. Stolp, 929 Thirteenth street, was reported. His death was due to a collision of his automobile with another car on Wilmette avenue. He had practiced medicine in the village for 43 years during which time he was active in civic affairs. The public school at Central avenue and Tenth street was named in his honor.

The Local Board of Charities, of which William H. Ellis was chairman, made its annual report.

Miss Mary E. Quayle, 38 Crescent place, tied with another writer in a patriotic poem contest staged by the Chicago Woman's club.

Attorney William T. Hapeman, 1008 Ashland avenue, won a corn husking contest held on the Mahoney farm in Kenilworth, by husking a bushel of corn in 4 minutes and 20 seconds.

James H. McGauran, machinist's mate at Great Lakes, took advantage of a day off to run down to Wilmette and marry Miss Germaine Rendenet.

10 Years Ago

November 11, 1917

Stanton VanInwagen was elected commander of Wilmette Post No. 46 American Legion.

The Wilmette Chamber of Commerce was making preparations for its annual banquet.

St. Francis Xavier school organized a Parent-Teacher association.

The Illinois Municipal league held its annual convention at Peoria. Village Manager C. C. Schultz was in attendance.

G. T. Hellmuth, 1705 Forest avenue, was elected treasurer of the National Safety council.

The marriage of Miss Frances Lindsay Zipf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Zipf, to Frank Bernard Lambert, Jr., was solemnized on Thursday, November 4.

Arthur Andersen, 930 Chestnut avenue, was elected to the board of trustees of Northwestern university.

Almost phenomenal gains in building operations were reported from all New Trier villages for the month of October.

BEHIND LITERATURE

On November 5, Charles Scribner's Sons published Mary M. Colum's illuminating new book about the ideas behind Modern Literature, From These Roots.
