Social Science Museum Given Assyrian Tablets

The social science museum at New Trier High school contains three clay Assyrian tablets presented by Dick Frazer. These have recently been examined by the oriental institute of the University of Chicago. The institute has informed the social science department that they are authentic Assyrian tablets dating back to about 2300 B. C. The institute translated two and is now working on a translation of the third. On one tablet appear two words that the institute has not found before.

Student Council Moves to Hold College Show

The student council undergraduate control organization at New Trier, recently passed a bill providing that during the early part of next year, a college exhibit be held. The purpose is to afford students direct information regarding the number of colleges which are represented, and also a comparison among them. Representatives from the council will be sent to the district convention to be held in Waukegan soon.

Assembly Will Be Held to Aid Frosh Activity

Next Tuesday an assembly will be held at New Trier High school to introduce extra-curricular activities to the freshman class. Representatives from clubs, publications, music, dramatic, and debating organizations will give a series of speeches.

SPEAKER
