Why Physicians Write Prescriptions

By D. S. Lyman
Lyman Pharmacy

The following explanations of why physicians write prescriptions were made by a very busy and eminently successful doctor.

"Because the patient's interests can best be served in that way. No individual doctor can afford to stock the many rare drugs indicated, from time to time, in the treatment of unusual cases."

"Few individual practitioner's offices are adequately equipped to do the laboratory work necessary at times to analyze the potency or freshness of drugs and chemicals, or to compound the drugs in the proper and scientific manner, for the patient."

He might also have said that graduate pharmacists only are permitted by law to fill prescriptions.
