Warm Days Inspire Extra Enthusiasm for Easter Sale

(Contributed)

The early spring is inspiring an extra amount of enthusiasm in the workers for "Springtime in Brittany," the annual sale of the Christ Church guild, which attracts many of the tasteful women of Winnetka and the north shore on the Saturday before Easter. It is here that they like to come not only to purchase their Easter flowers and delicacies but also to view the lovely table settings which display the very latest styles in doilies and linens.

Mrs. George Musselman is in charge of the flowers this year, and will display them stunningly under a large marquee in the center of the big hall of the Parish House. Mrs. Wyndham Channer is using all of her famous ingenuity for arranging her food tables as one would find them in the Brittany shops, "just too hard to resist," and Mrs. E. L. Hicks, Jr., has the willing cooperation of twenty prominent women for the table setting.

There will be dinner tables, luncheon tables, both formal and informal, breakfast trays and cocktail trays, all displaying the charming new linens made by the order department of the guild. The settings are to be named by the individuals who make them, after plays or movies. No doubt Snow White will appear, "Merrily We Live," "In Old Chicago," possibly "Bringing up Baby."

Ribbon awards are to be presented with the following requirements in mind: first, balance; second, appropriateness of the china to the linen; third, individuality of charm and taste. Therefore, the interest in serving the guild in this way is doubly keen, and the following names are found on the list of those presenting tables: the Mesdames R. D. Wood, Gilbert Crowder, John Miller, John P. Hooker, James G. Kellogg, Raymond Koch, Francis Senear, Ralph Rockwood, James Donovan, John Stephens, George Lynde, Arthur Duncan, Arthur Reebie, A. G. Goodrich, Rene Travelletti, John Bag-galey, and members of the Junior auxiliary.
