

College Students Are Recent Guests Here

Miss Florence Gipe of Indianapolis, a student at Mount Holyoke college, South Hadley, Mass., during her spring vacation last week was the guest of Miss Annamarie Booz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norton A. Booz, 919 Forest avenue. Miss Booz, a former Mount Holyoke student, is now attending Northwestern, but the week-end following Easter Sunday she is planning to fly east to attend the Holyoke junior prom. Other guests at the Booz home last week were Miss Katharine and Miss Charlotte Madson, Grinnell college girls and members of the Grinnell Glee club, which was in Chicago on tour from March 26 to March 30.

Kenilworth War on Speeders Is Ordered

A campaign against speeding, particularly in the residential areas near the Joseph Sears school, was ordered on Monday night of this week by the Kenilworth village council after a number of trustees had complained of violations.

It was suggested that the village seek the aid of the state highway department in erecting signs throughout the community designating maximum speed limits.

Major offenders in speeding, it was declared were people driving to or from the Sears school or the township high school and to and from the railway depots.

PETER PAN MARIONETTES

Lehle Photo

For two successive Saturdays, March 26 and April 2, the 80 chairs have been filled by children eager to see Peter Pan and his friends perform on the marionette stage at the library.

The first scene depicts Peter in the nursery of the Darling family looking for his shadow. He teaches Wendy and the boys to fly, and away they go to the "Never-Land" to let the "lost boys" know the rest of the story of Cinderella.

The second scene takes place in the "Never-Land." Some of the boys, waiting for Peter, shoot Wendy because they think she is a white bird. Peter finds the arrow does her no real harm as it lodges in the acorn kiss he had given her. Pirates and the crocodile keep the actors and audience in a state of expectancy.

The last scene shows Wendy mothering Peter and the boys in the house under the ground. When Tinker Bell, the fairy, drinks Peter's poisoned medicine, Peter appeals to the audience to save her life by clapping their hands to show they believe in fairies. The spontaneous clapping keeps Tink's light burning. Then Peter dashes off to rescue Wendy and the boys from the pirates.

One More Show

The children who have not been lucky enough to come to the library before all the tickets have been given out for each time, it was explained have asked for one more repetition of the play. The puppeteers have consented to do an additional performance. It is scheduled for April 23.

Distribution of the tickets will begin the Saturday preceding that date, it was added by Mrs. Ann McKay, children's librarian.

Harold Steffens Baby Is Christened Sandra Lois

Wearing her grandfather's christening dress and her great grandmother's wedding shawl, the daughter and first child of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Steffens, 2508 Thornwood avenue, was christened Sandra Lois, at a service at St. Joseph's church in Wilmette on Sunday.

Among those present for the christening were the godmother, Miss Beatrice Steffens of Wilmette, the baby's aunt, and Richard Miller of Wilmette, the godfather.

Sandra, who was born March 18, at St. Francis hospital, has an impressively long list of living grandparents and great grandparents, most of them making their homes here in the village.

The baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Bleser and Mr. and Mrs. Nick J. Miller of Wilmette, and her great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Nick P. Miller of Wilmette and Mr. and Mrs. John McUliski of Evanston. She also has three great grandmothers—Mrs. Nick Bleser of Ridge avenue, Wilmette, Mrs. Joseph Steffens of Illinois road, Wilmette, and Mrs. Anna Schaefer of Washington avenue, Wilmette.

HOME ON VACATION

Dewitt Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Jones, 325 Richmond road, Kenilworth, a student at Dartmouth college, arrived home last week-end for the spring vacation. On Saturday, Charlie Gluck of Minneapolis will stop at the Jones home and the following day the two boys will motor back to college together.

Rowland and Margaret Davis, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Davis, 1215 Elmwood avenue, both freshmen at Miami university, Oxford, Ohio, are home for the spring holidays. They will return to Oxford Tuesday.
