ACC supports mediation service

By Don Filarski Staff Writer

past year in a new community program, the Sunrise Mediation Service, which went Dempsey has been involved this ervice, which works to resolve conflicts between parties that might otherwise end up in small

People filing a case in People filing a case in small claims court can expect to pay $22 - $37. A small claim must be made in a dollar amount even in a case such as a prop-

Dempsey stated that people don't often understand why mediation is better than going to court. She explained that in court a judge acts often like an arbi-trator where both sides of an argument are heard and a judgeent is made which often only

mediation

While driving down Johnson Street one might notice have performed in an extraordi-fashion at the college in Phi Theta Kappa elected its officers for the 1994-95 school year on April 19.

The officers are: Donna Richards, president, Lite Belanger, vice-president, Jennifer Weinkauf, secretary, Pat Cook, public relation secretary, and Julie Litwinski, treasurer. They will take office

Some of the incoming officers recently had the opportunity to learn more about PTK. On April 22, current President Shawn Dempsey and

BY MELODY SHARP STAFF WRITER

that they both can live with

Situations the mediation service will tackle are numerous and include business or contract disputes, property damage, or difficulties between children or teens

The SMS has been in op-eration since April 1, 1993, and has handled 32 cases. Dempsey, who is considering a career in law, has functioned in several cases and has found the experience very worthwhile.

Toni Jurmu is the current

Toni Jurnu is the current coordinator/director and holds a B.S. degree in psychology with experience in probate court. Her job is intake — to discover if a dispute is appropriate for mediation. If it is, she goes about seeing if both parties will agree to a mediation meeting on neutral ground, usually church, county or school buildings.

Last of all she assigns two volunteer mediators. If parties come to an agreement, a written document is signed by the par-the carrying out of their job re-sponsibilities. President Dr. Don Newport stated, "Those are campus they desire and a tree

Theta Kappa trips out

Newport stated, "Those people that walk further .

and faster than others.

ties involved

The agency will even per-form a follow up after three months to see how things are going in regard to the agreement.

Charles Wiesen, ACC Executive Director of the Center for Economic & Human Re-source Development serves as president of the SMS board of

He described the SMS as a place which provides people an-other opportunity to solve their problems in a civil manner, in-stead of going directly to the court which is often overloaded with litigation. Wiesen believes that a community is stronger when it solves its own problems, and the mediation center pro-vides the community with this opportunity

For information pick up a brochure on one of ACC's information stands entitled "Conflict? The Solution Is In Your Hands!" or call the SMS at 1-800-552-2625. ACC staff are honored planted in their honor in the Selection is made by New port from nominations provided by any staff member who feels

Paul Aaron, a Senior Research Associate from Brandeis University in Massachusetts rice-Learning Coordinator Julie Smigelski and student Caroline Lechel.

Photo by Linda Simp.

Center involved in survey

The Service-Learning Center at Alpena Community College recently had a visitor from Brandeis University in Massachusetts. Paul Aaron, a Massachusetts. Paul Aaron, a Senior Research Associate, made an on-site visit to our campus because ACC is participating in a nationwide Service-Learning survey. ACC is the only community college in Michigan instabled in the control of the contro

Chuck Wiesen, Nursing Instruc-tor Corky Williams, Instructor Dave Eger, Tendercare Activi-ties Director Thelma Stevens, and several students involved in the Service-Learning program.

Aaron commented on the high level of community enthusiasm toward the projects at asked student Caroline Lechel what made the met with President Dr. Donald Lechel, who tutors at Besser El-Newport, CEHRD Director ementary School said, "I share Chuck Wiesen, Nursing Instruc- [ACC instructor] Charles [ACC instructor] Rosebush's enthusiasm math with my students at Besser I feel I have a lot to offer them and they deserve the extra help."

Service-LearningCoordina-tor Julie Smigelski has applied for a grant from the Corpora-tion for National and Community Service in Washington, D.C. If the application is successful, there will be a considerable ex-

Johnson Street one might notice that each month a new name mysteriously appears on the ACC billboard announcing "The Lumberjack of the Month." All staff are eligible for recognition and the first recipi-ent was Lyle Beck, director of the nominee has performed an outstanding service to the college and its students. During his visit, Aaron ent from simply volunteering. Fall of 1994. data processing. Since that time 49 awards have been given. Recipients for 1993-94 were Don Witt, Kathy Momrick, Recipients receive a letter of commendation presented by Newport, various donated items from area merchanis. Newport recognized in D.C. The Lumberjack of the Month award started in Novem-Sonya Titus, Linda Suneson Rob Roose, Sandy Eastway, ber, 1989, as a recognition program for staff members who Corky Williams, Karen Eller, Chuck Wiesen, Curt Davis, Ken Hubbard, Mike Hood, Dot from area merchants, a desig-nated parking space anywhere on

By DENINE KONWINSK

ACC's Dr. Donald New ACC's Dr. Donald New-port was among 18 community college presidents out of 1,200 in the U.S. recently recognized by the American Association of Community Colleges for serv-ing a minimum of 25 years as president. The honor was granted the National Meeting of Conat the National Meeting of Com-munity Colleges in Washington,

"It's more of an acknowledgment of survival than anything," Newport stated, trying to down play the award.

Despite the average "life" of 9.4 years for a president of a community college, Newport has been with ACC for 6, and sees himself staying on.

for the length of time individuals serve as president of an institution such as a community college.

For one, he says, the role has changed. When he first became president, the emphasis was building up the credibility of community colleges. Today the emphasis lies on finance and other outside factors, including the politics within the field.

Another large factor is simply pressure, Newport stated.
Some individuals have trouble maintaining a balance between those pressures and the time needed to put into the job.

But Newport has learned to change with the times, and maintain a balance.

"I enjoy seeing the institu renjoy seeing the institu-tion being responsive . . . and seeing the community and the individual grow - everything else is second place," he said.

Max Lindsay teases Mike Hood upon his retirement celebration at the recent Recognition dinner and pro-Photo by Linda Simpson

Correction:

The following PTK inductees were incorrectly named in the April 13 issue of The Polemic: Patrick Cook was mistakenly billed as Patricia Cook, Jennifer Weinkauf was mistakenly billed as Wendy Weinkauf, and David Murray was ommitted.

Public Relations Secretary Craig Brown, along with Weinkauf, Cook, and Richards headed to Clair, Michigan, for the annual PTK regional con-

Gonia, and John Singer

"The trip was very stimulating -- a true learning experience," says Dempsey. "I would advise anyone interested in PTK to take the plunge." Mid-Michigan Community College hosted the

The three day trip ended with an awards ceremony where PTK Advisor Wes Law won the Horizon Award for new advsors. Law has been PTK advisor for ty

Cal State lawsuit results 111 model gender equity program

for 25 years service

A landmark State University (CSU) system at the forefront of offer-ing equal opportunities in sports women students by the end

The settlement, announce as a decision in the case of Cali-fornia NOW v. The California State University, mandates that all 20 CSU schools give opportunities to women stud proportional to their represe students in the student body by the 1998-99 school year.
The settlement also requires proportionality in offering ath-letic scholarships and in budgets.

Women's Sports Founda-1984 Olympic triple gold med-alist in swimming, hailed the settlement as a recognition that the time has come for equitable treatment of women athletes.
"The CSU system has taken a giant step by committing it-self to truly equitable sports programs, not just programs that pay lip service to gender equity," said Hogshead. "By agreeing to this settlement, the CSU administration has avoided a court fight that could divide its athletic departments and instead focuses the institution's energies on moving forward to an equitable future.

We applaud their decision." The suit alleged that CSU had failed to make progress toward eliminating disparities between women and men in in-tercollegiate sports as required by the state Education Code.

Women's Sports Foundation Executive Director Donna Lopiano noted that the settlement will put pressure on the Univer-sity of California to move toward gender equity as well.

"Since the CSU system has agreed to this strict standard of gender equity under the Califor nia Education Code, the University of California system will have to take a close look at their own programs," Lopiano said. "If all CSU and UC schools create truly equitable programs, California will be the example from which the rest of the coun-

Concrete Technology

Exciting hands-on learning environment

 Exceptional employment oppertunities ■ National representation provides current curriculum

■ Well equipped facilities, ALPENA expert staff

ENROLL TODAY!

Two Year Program Offers AAS Degree

Applications accepted year round . . . new classes begin each fall

Contact. Robert Eller, Instructor 356-9021 Ext. 220

Open hours Servicing Alpena in two locations