

Shakespeare introduced

"Shakespeare, with the English man of war, lesser in bulk, but lighter in sailing, could turn with all tides, tack about, and take advantage of all winds, by the quickness of his wit and invention." This is Thomas Fuller's opinion of the playwright and poet William Shakespeare. What is your opinion of the famous bard? You will have a chance to critique Shakespeare for credit if you take ACC's new course, English 235.

Beginning next semester, ACC will offer a 2 credit-hour course covering seven plays by William Shakespeare. English 235, taught by Dr. Peg Lee, will count as a humanities or additional English credit. Anyone and everyone is welcome to participate in the class which will meet every Wednesday from 6-8 pm unless there is a play showing on TV.

Much of the class consists of watching Shakespeare on TV. PBS is in its second of six seasons of telecasting all 37 Shakespearean plays.

The entire canon of Shakespeare's plays have been specially designed for television. Conversation has been accelerated so it is easier for the audience to comprehend. Also, many special effects have been utilized that are only possible in television, and not on stage.

Exposure to these plays is brought to the public by the the British Broadcasting Corporation. Distinguished British actors are being used to preserve the dialogue, only minor contextual changes were allowed.

Each season has a mix of comedies, tragedies, and histories. The 1980 season includes "Twelfth Night", February 27, "The Tempest", March 12; "Richard III, March 26; Henry IV, Part I, April 9; Henry IV, Part II, April 23; Henry V, May 7 and Hamlet, on May 21.

Youths confess to Law office break-in Police have finally apprehended the people involved in the series of burglaries at the Law Enforcement office in East Campus.

The most recent break-in occurred November 30th at about 1 am. Taken were a clock-radio, an ornamental cigarette lighter, a book of matches, a jar, and a bag of candy.

Almost three hours after the break-in, police found two youths lurking around the old Ford garage near third and river streets. When questioned, the youths confessed to the break-in earlier that night and also took the blame for the two other break-ins earlier this semester.

Police recovered some of the items taken in the three burglaries but these items are being held to use as evidence at probate court.

The names of the two boys, ages 13 and 14, were not released by the police.

ACC Board holds first meeting

Wednesday, November 27, was the date for the history-making first meeting of the ACC Board of Trustees.

Officers were elected by secret ballot: Roger Bauer, Chairperson; Father Terence Raymond, Treasurer; and Gail Marshall, the only non-board member to hold office, Secretary.

ACC President, Dr. Charles Donnelly, addressed the Board and observers on the duties of the Trustees and his philosophy concerning community colleges.

At the next meeting, to be held Thursday, January 3, at 7:30 p.m., the Board of Trustees will adopt by-laws and expedite plans for transfer of property, personnel, leases and funds. All of the Board meetings will be held at NRC 450 and are open to the public.

Miss Piggy draws disciples

LAWRENCE, Kan. (CH)- Kermit the Frog may not have succumbed to her charms yet, but Miss Piggy has definitely captured the hearts of 15 Kansas University students.

The group has formed a Miss Piggy fan club for the popular Muppet character, sponsoring such events as a weekly pig-out (members wear felt pig ears to the dining hall and snort their food), group viewing of Muppet productions and protests against the serving of pork in the cafeteria.

The Miss Piggy Fan Club gets funding from a dorm educational facilities fund. Most admit their activities are pure foolishness, but a few sound almost serious when they say they're trying to remove the social stigma against pigs.

CIA recruits members from colleges

The U.S. Central Intelligence Agency is deeply involved with American universities and professors, and is fighting hard to resist efforts to oust the spy agency from academia, Penthouse Magazine charges in its October issue.

"According to intelligence sources, at least 350 academics and administrators are covertly working for the CIA on more than 100 American campuses," the magazine says.

"They form a link with the CIA that has become so pervasive that there is some doubt whether a complete break between the two can ever be achieved."

According to journalist Ernest Volkman, the CIA's operations on campus including using professors as researchers and spies during trips abroad, and recruiting both American and foreign students as agents. Third World students studying in the United States are special targets for recruitment since the CIA would like to have future foreign leaders on its payroll.

Penthouse also charges that the CIA cooperated with SAVAK, the secret police of the Shah of Iran before the Islamic revolution in Tehran, in identifying anti-Shah Iranian students. The families of such students later were visited in Iran by SAVAK agents who tried to convince the families to dissuade their children from political activities.

Although many professors find CIA tries to be lucrative, Harvard University's President Derek Bok-

who inaugurated an effort to regulate CIA activities at Harvard over three years ago-believes that "CIA covert recruiting threatens the integrity and independence of the academic community."

In response to guidelines written by Harvard to restrict some CIA activities and to expose others, the spy agency said flatly it would ignore the Harvard guidelines.

President Carter's CIA director, Adm. Stansfield Turner, has declared: "If we were required to abide by the rules of every corporation, every academic institution, it would become impossible to do the required job for our country. Harvard does not have legal authority over us."

In addition to Harvard: the CIA is especially active in other Ivy League schools—a traditional recruiting ground for agency spies and executives. But in recent years, Penthouse discovered, the agency has also been active in other universities. Among them:

The University of Michigan. "According to newly revealed documents, many individuals on the faculty of the university's Center for Chinese Studies for years have had secret relationships with the CIA," Penthouse says.

UCLA. A visiting Canadian scholar, Paul Lin, was put under FBI surveillance because he had lived in China for 15 years.

University of Illinois. "There has been extensive CIA involvement at this campus because of the large number of Iranian students enrolled." The magazine says the CIA worked closely with the FBI and the Chicago Police Department's "Red Squad" to harass Iranian students who opposed the Shah.

University of Kentucky, CIA chief Turner is a member of the Board of Advisers of the university's Patterson School of Law and Diplomacy "which...does work for the agency," the magazine says.

Notre Dame. "A particular favorite recruiting target," according to Penthouse.
