Taken from Belleville's city hall, this photo shows Pinnacle Street before the old police building (centre) on the Market Square was demolished in 1965. The wholesale operation of the Big A Company was located at 179 Pinnacle St. The building immediately south of Big A no longer exists. The Loblaw's building was converted to a roller-rink during the 1970s, then into a furniture store and eventually demolished to make way for the Belleville Bus Terminal.
