

Marking the site

Sod-turning Wednesday marked ceremonial start on new plant for Belleville's Reid's Dairy. The site is the northeast corner of Bell Boulevard and Sidney Street where the facility, estimated to cost more than $2 million, is to be in production by Dec. 1, doubling present production. In group at sod-turning were Shirley Baldwin (left), executive assistant to company president Armin Quickert, who shares digging duty with Mayor George Zegouras and Fred Bemis, city's economic and business development director.
