

Dean Carlson

"She really doesn't like to come along," he said. Flying also influences his reading — aviation magazines and the like.

Carlson also admits to "struggling" with golf and during the summer, there are travels to the Smith family cottage on Georgian Bay.

Chris has been along for the trip, meaning when the family gathers, there is Smith who was a Big Brother to Carlson, who was a Little Brother and now is a Big Brother to Little Brother, Chris. (Follow that?)

Wanda works part-time for Revenue Canada in Belleville and is in the third year of business administration at Loyalist College.

It doesn't leave a lot of leisure time. "We don't get out much," Carlson said.

But there is always time for Chris.

There is a waiting list — 10, right now — for "Littles" to be matched up with Big Brothers and Big Sisters. The 'Littles' are between the ages of six and 12 and you can specify your age preference.

Adults are screened and matched with youngsters with similar interests. To find out more, call 962-3666. The Big Brothers Big Sisters organization is at 118 Dundas St. E., upstairs.
