

Daley, Cecilia

Several years ago, Cecilia Daley started working toward a university degree doing much of her work at this cubicle in the Belleville Public Library. On Monday she sat there again, but this time had in her possession the degree which she received during convocation ceremonies Saturday at Kingston's Queen's University. The school offers courses in Belleville that allow students not able to drive to Kingston to continue their post-secondary education.

Intelligencer
June 4, 1985