Lawyer's death shocks

Rel - Bruix - T

TRENTON - The chairman of the Trenton Downtown Business Improvement Area (DBIA) said he is "shocked and saddened" by the sudden death Friday of the association's lawyer.

Gerrit Bruix, said Saturday the DBIA will have to hold a meeting in the near future to decide on what it will do.

Don Templeman, of Belleville, a lawyer representing the DBIA in its fight against a proposed commercial development in Sidney Township just outside of Trenton, died Friday morning after being struck by the east bound Turbo train at the CN Station just outside of Trenton.

He was at the station making inquiries on behalf of a client.

Templeman had represented the DBIA since 1979 when it first opposed the construction of a sewer line to the 14-acre commercial development located just south of Highway 401 on Sidney Street.

He had led the fight to have an Ontario Municipal Board hearing opened into the commercial development which could have an adverse affect on the downtown.
