

Dr. MacIntosh Opens Practice In the City

Intell Dec 1/66

Douglas A. MacIntosh, consultant in internal medicine and haematology, has joined the medical profession in Belleville.

Dr. MacIntosh born in 1931 in Moose Jaw, Sask., received his public school education in Belleville and Kingston, graduating from secondary school in Kingston to Queen's University.

After taking an honors BA, he left university with his MD, CM in 1959 and took post-graduate training at Kingston General Hospital.

From 1960-61 he was resident in general practice at the University of Michigan Medical Centre and returned to Kingston General for residency in internal medicine 1961-62.

He practiced with a fellowship in haematology at the University of Michigan from 1964 to 1965 and the following year at the University of Ottawa.

He is married to the former Catherine Casselman, of Berwick, Ont., and has two children, Ross Douglas, 3, and Cynthia Jean, 20 months.

Dr. MacIntosh is resident at 112 Orchard Drive and has his office at 247 John Street.

*The Intelligencer
Dec 1, 1966*