She holds two part-time jobs, is a trustee on the local Catholic school board, rides horses at every opportunity, plays soccer, floor hockey and European hand ball and has written articles that have appeared in her hometown paper.

All this makes her a good Quinte neighbour, but it's a busy schedule, so busy that Amanda Boden hasn't had time to bury herself in a book for quite some time.

"I do read — I haven't had time to read in a while," the St. Theresa Catholic Secondary School said.

She also maintains a scholastic average in the high nineties.

The 18-year-old Tweed resident elected to return to the school for a fifth year because she was unsure of her goal in life.

"I just didn't know what I wanted to do," Boden explained.

That's changed now.

"I would like to go to university and study French and become a (high school) French teacher," she said. "I'm very passionate about French."
