Police divers were still searching the Bay of Quinte early today for a 56-year-old prominent Belleville businessman, missing since Sunday.

Ontario Provincial Police at Picton were still refusing to identify the man at press time but a source close to the family said he is Stuart McDougall, of RR. 1, Belleville, president of Lorne McDougall Insurance Agencies Ltd.

Police said the search, centred near Gull Island between Belleville and Point Anne, was called after someone observed an empty motorboat going in circles.

Born at North Bay, Mr. McDougall served as an air gunner in the Second World War and has lived in Belleville for the past 30 years. He is a member of the Belleville Club and the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.
