Mrs. A. H. (Betty) McFarlane has announced she will seek nomination as a candidate in the county school board elections.

Mrs. McFarlane has been prominent in community activities since arriving in Belleville from Montreal over a year ago. She was chairman of the successful United Community Fund campaign which ended last night.

A graduate of McGill University in psychology, she is a former high school teacher and past chairman of the McGill Alumnae Association's committee on continuing education. She was instrumental in initiating a night school teacher training program at McGill for secondary school teachers.

Mrs. McFarlane held executive positions in the Montreal United Appeal for nine years and was an organizer of students' conferences at McGill.

"As both a teacher and a community worker I feel I can bring to the new board a broad knowledge of the two institutions involved in education," she said today.

"My executive experience has taught me how to squeeze every cent of value from the dollar," she added.

Mrs. McFarlane's husband is director of students' services at Loyalist College. She has two children, a daughter now attending McGill University and a son taking post-graduate studies at the University of Toronto. She is employed as a real estate salesman for the firm of Bowes and Cocks Ltd.
