Birthday celebrations

It was fitting Sunday that a celebration of Marge McKenna's 90th birthday was held in the hall named after her at the Foster Ward Community Centre. McKenna's contributions to Foster Ward included political activities both at the local level and for the Progressive Conservatives. Her efforts to make life better in the community were recognized in 1985 when the hall was named after her. Mayor George Zegouras, town crier Al Kelleher and members of the Wharf Street Debating Club executive joined friends and family at the celebration. Family members at the party included children June Blaind and Cameron McKenna flanking their mother and daughters Nellie Jean Holland, Dorothy Mowers and Maxine McKenna at the back.
