

The Differing Doctors.

DR. TRACY'S OPINION OF THE MERRILL CASE.

Dr. Tracy yesterday evening stated that on seeing the body of Miss Merrill shortly before 2 p. m. on Thursday, he found the lower limbs and feet warm to such extent that artificial means could not have supplied. There was some discoloration, which disappeared on the body being turned, thus showing that the blood was circulating. He advised that the body be not interred until decomposition had set in and on again seeing the remains on Thursday night he found that decomposition had begun.
