Former local head of RCMP dies in Regina after fall

Funeral will be held Wednesday in Pembroke for Gary Parish, former Belleville detachment commander of the RCMP.

Sgt. Parish, 38, died Friday evening when he fell down a long flight of stairs in the RCMP's training centre in Regina. It was not known whether he had a heart attack, Cpl. John Corkham, current commander of the Belleville detachment said today.

Sgt. Parish was the Belleville detachment commander of the RCMP from August, 1975, to last summer, when he was transferred to the Regina detachment as its second man-in-command.

Sgt. Parish is survived by his wife, and two children.
