

*The Eighth Boy To Pay The Supreme Sacrifice in One Sunday School Class in Cambridge St.
United Church*

Attended by an exceptionally large concourse of sympathizing friends, many of whom were unable to gain an entrance, the funeral service for the late P.O. Bruce Frederick, who was killed in a plane crash on Saturday forenoon was held at the John Anderson Chapel on Monday afternoon, with military and civilian honours.

Rev. J. J. Black, pastor of the deceased, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. C. D. Cross, rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Dr. F. H. McIntosh and Flgt.-Lieut. Moynan, chaplain to the forces at Camp Borden. Miss Geach and Miss Gillespie rendered an impressive duet, "The Holy City" at the request of the family. Mrs. Penfound was at the organ. A hymn "Jerusalem the Golden" was sung.

Quoting from the Padre's message he said: "Service men are men of few words. They speak by their deeds. My words will be few but sincere coming from myself and the comrades of the deceased. I have been asked by the Commanding Officer and all his comrades who knew him and lived with him at Camp Borden, to extend their deepest sympathy to the bereaved at this time. It can be summed up in two portions of Holy Scripture, which is our comfort as we think of him who has gone ahead and the only comfort for the bereaved."

The 23rd Psalm and a portion from St. Paul's writings were read with much feeling and impressiveness.

"In that faith and confidence we remember our comrade today and honor his memory. Our best monument will be the building of a better world for which he died. Our boys are on the front line as soon as they join the forces. We dare not fail him who has gone and countless others. May God make us faithful and by our faithfulness truly honour his memory."

Rev. Mr. Black paid tribute to the father of the deceased, whom he knew as a young Methodist Minister and who passed away about 24 years ago, leaving a wife and three little boys. He paid tribute to the mother of these boys who brought them up in the influence of a Christian home and educated them and then made the unique contribution of giving the three of them to the Air Force. Mr. Black also thought of another young mother left with a little child, Mrs. Bruce Frederick, widow of the deceased and her little daughter.

In paying tribute to the one who had sacrificed his life on the altar of freedom he said he had a fine personality, and disposition and gifts, referring in particular to his musical gifts. "Our church has been deeply afflicted," said Mr. Black. "From Miss Flavelle's class Bruce is the eighth boy to pay the supreme sacrifice. They were all in the R.C.A.F. They all hated war but they hated the tyranny that was seeking to spread itself over the world, worse than war."
