

On The Main Street

with Ford Moynes Thursday

Seasons come and go and fleecy clouds endlessly roll and municipal councillors come and go and the perennial crops of aspirants is forever changing. Linked with the success of town councillors in Lindsay appear the names of two popular women, Mrs. Ada Neill Gregory and Mrs. Doris Acheson, both of whom served faithfully and well. Both served many terms and this service included membership in the County Council of Victoria.

Mrs. Acheson renewed acquaintances in Lindsay a few days ago and proof that Lindsay still keeps abreast of the times was manifested when she renewed her subscription to the Daily Post and when she inquired about town problems. Mrs. Acheson, having had early training as an elocutionist was at all times able to express herself in all situations and problems confronting the council and for a term she served well as "Minister of Finance". Other local interests included her membership in the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire during which time she rendered loyal service as regent. Mrs. Acheson also was an efficient member of the executive of the Kiwanis Music Festival organization for several years.

Apart from visiting Lindsay from time to time Mrs. Acheson spends weeks in the summer and winter months with friends in Florida, Virginia and other states across the U.S. border.
