Sept. 5, 1861. ,000, at toods asw corol :114-11

WELLER & BROTHER, BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Votarios Public Conveyancers, &c., &c., &c., Linday, Office in Mr. Britten's Building, up stairs, C. A. Wettkers of the Growns Withen. Lindsay, Jane 1869 Commenter drin material labe

MCFADYEN, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, RIC

ROBERT T. BURNS, Provincial Land Surveyor, Civil Engineer, Draughtsman, Land Agent, &c. Wild and other Lands valued. Office Corner of Kent and William Streets, over Lindsay, Sept. 5, 1961

DR. MARTIN CLATIF OF MANILEAN

HAS Removed to Lindsny, for the practice buildings, fuct of Kent St. (up stairs).

DES. LEGYD & KENNEUT. BURGICAL AND MECHANICAL DENTISTS, Illure REMOVED their Dental Office to WILLIAM
ST., opposite Mr. Lisle's Butcher Shop. ST., opposite Mr. Liste's Butch Lindsay, Dec. 11, 1901.

JAMES H. KNIGHT TRACHER OF THE PIANOFORTE AND MELODEON,

Residence at Mr. C. Britton's, Kent Street. LINDSAY COST TO SENIO & B

MESSRS. CUMBERLAND & STORM,
Civil Engineers and Architects,
Lerosavi and Romaine Buildings, Toronto.

W. C. COX. House and Ornamental Painter and Clasier, William Street, Lind-eax.—Country and other work attended to with punctuality and despatch.

HENRY ROWLAND, Plain and Orna-moutal Painter and Paperhanger, Kent Street, Lindsay. 27 All orders promptly and faithfully executed.

WINTERS & GOODWIN, Painters, V siers and Paper-Hangers, William Street, Limbay, Work executed promptly, acatly, and at the lowest prices.

JOHN DOUGLASS, General Agent and Licensel Audioneer, Cambridge Street, Lindsay-Orders solicited. 125-46

LISLIG, Butcher, and Dealer in all Winds J. Lishis, Butcher, and Dealer in an array of Meats, William Street, three doors from Poel Street, Lindsays, M. H. Onions for perery description of Meat solicited.

BOVARIUM.

COOD Meat I keep, as all do know Adjoining Joseph Funkles The flies, I warrant, do not " blow" Upon my tonder junks. Beef, Matton, Lamb, and Veal also In season you may faul; And, if of Scap you want "a go," Speak for the falls in time.

Good Marrow-bone, Kidneys likewise Sweet-breads, and Tit-bits all, Livers and Tengues ; if you are wise, You'll soon give me a call. NED MORRES

SADDLERY BSTABLISHMENT South side of Rent Serent, Three Doors Thompson's T Store.

A choice let of Saddles, Harness, Bridles, Spure and Brushes, hept on hand.

PHONIX-LIKE I RISE

woteW, 411 THOMPSON, Proprietor. 119-tf.

Manilla House, Manilla.

1 Bob Pitman always in attendance to take there of Teams.

8. CONWAY, Proprietor. ADAM GORDON

BEGS leave to inform the Public that he

Manille, Sept. 5, 1861-17

oda anw O AKWOOD

BANKS' HOTEL, Main Street, Oakwood IP Good Stabling and a careful Oetler. Wat. BANKS, Proprietor. 118-

J. WILSON, Barrister and Atterney at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, &c., Whitby, C.W.

LAW PARTNERSHIP THE Understaned have emered into par

Advertising Essential to Susing agen Shop, three doors are I. an arepared to AUGUSTUS WEBBER AUGUSTUS WEBBER CHARLES IN A COLOR AND A COLO past fayors, he solicite a none European and States C. PASSAGE.

61. 114-tf June, 1862.

These words were uttered by my college than I shall be nich and great many an items, and have my name handed down to patients, Welpole, as we entered, and have my name handed down to patients, Welpole, as we entered as no developed, and the my name handed down to patients, Cooley hands with the great and section of the section of the section of the section of the section of glossy and are carle that fell over his broad, open bove in many a tanged ring. The last interfered person is the section of glossy and are carle that fell over his broad, open bove in many a tanged ring. The last interfered person is the carles of the section of glossy and are carle that fell over his broad, open bove in many a tanged ring. The last interfered person is a carles of the section of glossy and are carle that fell over his broad, open bove in many a tanged ring. The last interfered person is a carles of the section of glossy and are carle that fell over his broad, open bove in many a tanged ring. The last interfered person is carled the section of glossy and are carled that the section of glossy and the carled that the se side her knitting, adjusted her spectacles, and moving her gaze from his countenance and "To share it with you, mayhap," responded fixing it for a moment on mine. But in my the old woman; "and what sort of wife would common place features there appeared to he you wish for?"

nothing particular to attract her attention, for "Oh, a brig
she shortly returned to the contemplation of swered, laughing

Then taking from her cupboard a package of cards, and from under a small round table a brown stone pitcher filled with water, she beckened me to approach

Supreme as was my contempt for all witch cruft and fortune tellers, I must confess that I felt a sort of mysterious dread as I received the eards from the brown, shrivelled hands. "Shuffle them," she said, in a low, hourse them a long time, then with a ghastly attempt at a smile, said-

Thus encouraged, I procee sual routine of questions, viz.; "Shall I be prosperous in my profession? Shall I soon be married, and to whom?" etc. "In your profession, young gent ne replied; #you will succeed wellow You become rich and celebrated, and many a dim eye shall light up, many a sinking pulse beat quicker, as Doctor Stanley's footsteps are heard approaching." "Hat you have guessed my profession!" I exclaimed. I felt a little vexed, for I had,

interruption, the dame continued—
"You will meet with but few crosses in life.
You will have several fleeting funcies, but your first true lave will be for a fair young tle, timid graces. You will make her your bride, and together you will be most happy."

"You are predicting a great many blessings man, living in a large and splendid house. Seven fair buirns are yours, fairer bath the iun never looked upon. Their mother lives to ws the river over which the weary soul must

"Oh, a bright young creature," he answered, laughing. hoog was en

Again she poured over the cards; now dently waxing impatient (1989) to all my other misfortunes, must I be an old the house I perceived myriads of brilliant blos

"There are a great many clouds and much darkness enveloping your future; it is very indistinct, not clear and sunny and easily read like your friend's there. However, here I see you, in a ball-room; I see the dancers, their ay and costly dresses; the bright lights gleamng upon fair faces; oh! it is a brilliant scene. You stand alone, you are sunk in deep thought. lovely girl. I see her pure, fair brow, her

"And shall I marry her?" he asked, eahangs over you, a frail, shadowy phantom tenderness upon this parent; but now I felt seems to rise up between you. But here, in that I too, if I dared, could love her.

time into the pitcher. At length he uttered a but scented the air with the fragrance of their groun, low and horrible, and darting out of the beautiful and delicate blossoms. hat was soon lost in the night. I, marvelling Standing by one of those windows, he

The next place where I found him was sitgirl whom you have not yet seen, but who is even now drawing near to you. You will not think of her when first you meet her, but afterwards you will become enthralled by her genuing the same to the same that it was to his mother, but he did not even once allude to the fortune teller or her predictions are alluded by her genuing the same teller or her predictions. tions, and I felt a sort of backwardness in do-ing so, although burning with anxiety to learn what vision had so much startled him; for alfor me," Liventured to remark. Stawns boat stands though I placed no faith in the words of for See that you be deserving of them. Few aside her knitting, adjusted her spectacles, and maxed long and scrutinizingly into his face.

CHAP. II.—FREDERICE'S HOME. I found thee vet a modest flower.

While this curious examination was taking place, Fred turned his laughing eye on me, with the words—

"I am actually getting nervous, Stanley; pray, ask the fates to send me a little good.

"You have foretold much evil for me, word, you must admire her flowers; you must bring her some rare specimens—in a word, you must understand botany to become a favorite. My mother is an excellent botanist pray, ask the fates to send me a little good.

"And better he would," said the dame, re
"To share it with you, may hap," responded.

"Then you must admire her flowers; you must bring her some rare specimens—in a word, you must understand botany to become a favorite. My mother is an excellent botanist pray, ask the fates to send me a little good.

"But you are aware that I am marvellous at it," I said.

weeds, and stuffing your pockets full of them. By this time we had walked a considerabl distance, but it did not appear far when Fred stopped at his maternal residence. It was a twinkle, to the died of the state of long, a very long time. My friend was evi- white house, with a very plain exterior. The lawn was beautifully shaven, and ornamented "Do you see no one?" he asked. "Added with magnificent trees. As we approached soms waving in the summer air, and their fragrance was gently wasted toward me. "How beautiful!" I exclaimed, as I drew close to them "These are but a few," said Fred, "which my mother has cultivated here; but wait until you see her flower-garden." As we entered, Frederick's mother met us here you are again; you are waltzing with a bowed gracefully to me. I was struck with admiration at her commanding figure, the olden curls. Oh, she is beautiful and of a height of her intellectual brow, the deep, tender light of her mild eyes, and the placid expression of her matronly face. Being left so early motherless I never, until that moment, could understand why Fred lavished so much this magic pitcher, you will see the person who is linked the closest with your destiny. You was furnished in a tasteful and elegant manner. may look into it and see if it be this fair young The low, deep windows were quite shaded by being, with the white brow and golden curls." roses, jessamine and honey-suckles, which not rederick stooped, and looked for a long only rendered the apartment deliciously cool, impostors. Without, however, heeding my at his hasty disappearance, followed his examination for the folds of the ple, as the prophetess had received her stipurich curtains, was a young girl who, springing at his hasty disappearance, followed his examination in the folds of the ple, as the prophetess had received her stipurich curtains, was a young girl who, springing at the prophetess had received her revelagreeted Fred very affectionately. I knew not who she was, but Mrs. Walpole advancing,

"This is my daughter, my Ada." I turned a reproachful look on Fred, which was meant to say, "You rascal, why did you sign, doubt all paintage description never tell me that you had a sister?"?

He understood me, and his joyous laugh vented the embarrassment which naturally companies the introduction of a young genleman to a fair and lovely girl. While Mrs. Walpole was reproving her son for what she termed his 'ill manners,' I had are to contemplate, without appearing to long as hers. Her hair was of a fair brown hue, and floated over her white brow and words he ever uttered in reference to her were period I might recognise my destined brile, when the suchastress broke the spell, and the vision faded from my view.

"And now, for yours," she said, turning fowards Fred; "but mark ys. I do not urge if the present is enough for you to ken, the inture is somewhat weird and wild."

I caught the glean of Fred's clear eye, as he turned towards the old woman, and began it turned towards the old woman, and began "How happy you must be to have a world and wild."

"How happy you must be to have a mother fiving." I remarked, with a sigh, as I thought "Now tell me, my good dame," he said, "I remarked, with a sigh, as I thought he first same process which I shall be rich and great; marry and feeriess," and have my name handed down to postertly closely laked, with the great and far with the great and far of his sister his eyes gave a mischievous "How could you so well have avoided mentioning her?" Lasked.

There appeared to be a peculiar meaning he light of his bright eye, as he answered, Perhans it was a kindness." "What do you mean?" I asked.

"She makes the best of sisters," he replied but I do not know what sort of a friend she would make to a young gentleman acquaint-

"You are positively wicked, Fred," I an swered. "I was not alluding to that, but n the hall. She embraced her son, and judging from what I have seen she would make a very desirable aequaintance for any one." (To be Continued.)

Miscellancons.

A DISAGREEABLE SURPRISE Mr. Abraham Coates, agent over the Ear of Stradbroke's estates, in the County of Wa terford, and of the extensive property of Lord Clifden in the County of Kilkenny, has been warned by the Government of his intended as sassination. While paying one of his accus tomed visits to Gowran Castle, on Thursday last, he was met by the sub-inspector of the district, who conveyed to him, by order of Government, the startling intelligence above amounced; and this was rendered still more alarming by the presence of a police party; some of whom were at the moment patrolling the grounds, and others of whom had been told off as a body guard to attend Mr. Coates whenever he moved abroad. The account states that the Government is aware that assassins are hired, and that pistols have been purchased to enable them to perpetrate their de-

RETURN OF THE IRISH FROM NORTH AMERICA.

do so of course, the features of the young lady. They were of that pensive cast which indicates the owner to be of a very thoughtful peared to be of a better class of laborers and disposition. Her eves were dark hazel, and I indicates the owner to be of a very thoughtful peared to be of a better class of laborers and disposition. Her eyes were dark hazel, and I tradesmen. The cause of this influx is to be lan escort, and after a prolonged fight, in thought that I had never before seen lashes so found in the fact, that a day or two before the which all the troopers were wounded, succeed-Etna sailed the Northern Government issued a general conscription order, and also a proclamation against naturalized citizens leaving the States. According to the information which we received from some of the Etna's passengers, the Irish population feel very indignant at these steps on the part of the Government, not that they would refuse to take part in a war against a foreign foe, but that they feel that the present war is a fratricidal and the carrying off the whole of the booty, amounting in value to £14,000 or £16,000 worth of gold. The whole country was at once in arms, and the Government offered a reward of £100 for the capture of each of the robbers, or free pardon to any of them turning Queen's pursuit, but have not as yet captured any of the desperadoes. They were so hotly pursued, however, that a pack horse, belonging to Etna sailed the Northern Government issued ed in carrying off the whole of the boo And now, look you here into this pitcher, and see her who was laid out for you even before see her who was laid out for you even before of the which must terminate at in early period one, which must te

G. CRUICKSHANK & CO.

the second according to make the second and the second and the second according to the second accordin races?", sorry, when ten was announced, to leave that into holy orders he loses his quality or rights "I dare say it would be very pleasant," I bright garden. But when we entered the cool as a citizen. That the organic law on public drawing-room and saw Frederick's sister, with worship of Germinal year X is as silent as the her small fingers, giving the last touch to the code upon this important point. That when "Then you must admire her flowers; you must bring her some rare specimens—in a word, you must understand botany to become a favorite. My mother is an excellent botanist—I don't care about the study."

But you are aware that I am marvellous at it," I said.

"Oh, yes, indeed! I altogether forgot that you were continually gathering dirty, ugly weeds, and stuffing your pockets full of them."

By this time we had walked a considerable her small fingers, giving the last touch to the tastefully arranged teatable, covered with choice and delicate viands, I could scarcely regret the change. What with the gentleness and grace of Miss Walpole, and the kindness and motherly condecension of Mrs. Walpole, and the kindness and motherly condecension of Mrs. Walpole, and the kindness and motherly condecension of Mrs. Walpole, and the kindness which that law does not contain. For the above reasons the Court orders the Mayor who refused to celebrate the marriage of M, de Brou Lauriere, the priest, with Mdlle. Elizabeth Fressanges, to proceed at once to perform the ceremony, and to register the contents to the legislature is silent it is no part of the duty of judges to seek in moral and religious considerable, but without any root in civil law, for probibitions which that law does not contain. For the above reasons the Court orders the Mayor who refused to celebrate the marriage of M, de Brou Lauriere, the priest, with Mdlle. Elizabeth Fressanges, to proceed at once to perform the ceremony, and to register the contents to the legislature is silent it is no part of the duty of judges to seek in moral and religious considerations, no doubt highly respectable, but without any root in civil law, for probibitions which that law does not contents the legislature is silent it is no part of the duty of judges to seek in moral and religious considerations, no doubt highly respectable, but without any root in civil law, for probibitions which that law does not contain. For the legislature is silent it is no part of the duty of judges to se such a mother, and when I spoke in high terms judgment was cited by the public minister as having been used by a great judge—M. Porta-lis. I think, said that magistrate, of the power which priests exercise over women in the confessional, and consider how dangerous it would be to the peace of families if 'a dissolute and imprincipled priest' should be enabled to exercise that power with a view of getting a wife for himself. Such considerations may possibly be thought to militate against the system of auricular confession, but not even the great name of Portalis can persuade anybody that they contain any shadow of legal argument.— Daily News' Paris Correspondence.

> ROBBERY OF A GOLD ESCORT IN AUSTRALIA.

A good deal of excitement has been engendered throughout the colony of New South Wales by the exploits of one Gardiner, a bushranger, whose success bids fair to place the adventures of Dick Turpin in the shade. For some months past this ruffian has with his party defied the attempts made for his capture. The police, both mounted and foot, have been up to the present time nonplussed. Gardiner's canz consists of some dozen desperadoes; and in a country like that which they infest, so thinly populated, with numerous tracts of forest, it is no easy matter to effect their capture. They are well provided with horses, fire-arms, money, &c., in addition to which they have a parently no lack of accomplices; and thus, for the last three months, they have, as it were, defied the whole of the police force. The term robber scarcely applies, or rather it is not a term sufficiently expressive; they more resemble the Italian brigand than aught else, retiring at times when hard pressed to fastnesse and places of hiding, known only to themselves. and places of hiding, known only to themselves. A degree of maudlin, poetic sentimentality has been engendered in the minds of many of the country people in the man's favor, which perhaps more than aught else tends to prevent his capture, as, although robbing right and left, he carefully avoids mulcting poor people, and in all cases avoided the commission of violence. To ladies he is especially polite; and tales are tald of his returning watches. some-The Cork Herald states that the Inman screw-steamer Etna, which arrived from New York last week, brought over five hundred steerage passengers, two hundred and forty four of whom landed at Queenstown. The

The smallest watch in the Exhibition is a