The above useful remarks are taken from the American Agriculturist. In reference to the important question of ventilation it has been said, that the great mortality occurring amongst the horses of the French cavalry have been diminished more and shouting, "Amen," "Glory to God!" cavalry have been diminished more than one half by increasing the amount of air supplied to the stables; no other change in the management

The French Government are now trying some experiments with respect to the results of the exposure of horses to even currents of air, some of the results having provair, some of the results having proved of the most favourable kind. As might be expected, the effects of the improved ventilation of stables have been still more fully exhibited with respect to sick and wounded horses.

Prof. Simonds, the distinguished veterinarian, in a report to the Royal Agricultural Society on the "Rinderpest," and other epidemics affecting the cattle of Europe, states that he found pleuro pneumonia very prevalent in some localities, and he was not surprised at this when he saw the condition in which the stock were kept, particularly in the vicinity of Rotterdam in Holland.

Come to speak for that man there," you are a pretty fellow for a witness," says the counsel, "not to know what plaintiff or defendant means." Some time after, being asked by the same counsel what part of the ship he was in at the time, "Abast the binnacle," replied the barrister, "what part of the ship is that?" "Ha! ha!" chuckled the sailor, "ain't you a pretty sellow for a counsellor," pointing arehly at him with his sin-

UNDERDRAINING MEADOWS. - ID some notes of a visit to New Jersey, the editor of the Country Gentleman

"Of the meadows, we saw more than once two fields side by side, one buggy and overgrown with coarse and almost useless grasses, in which cattle would sink at every step at the risk of being mired, and the other firm under loot, with a fine thick sod, and as luxuriant green grass (Poa pratensis) and white clover, as we ever saw on the meadows of the Brandywine or in the best pasturage of Kentucky. The first cause of the contrast thus exhibited, was the underdraining of the land."

Resolved,—That while our beloved country was governed by Democratic principles and Democratic rule, it showed to the world a people prosperous, happy and blest beyond example. Two years of Republican abolition rule has garnered as its fruits:—
