

Odds and Ends.

PARISIAN SOCIETY has been saddened by the death of a young lady of rank and fashion.

THE EMPEROR of the French has sent a magnificent chalice of gold to the priest of a small church at Hoboken, where his Majesty lived as a private gentleman during his stay in America.

THE GRASS VALLEY NATIONAL propounds this con.—"Why does a policeman never get run over?" and answers—"Because he is never in the way."

EXTRAORDINARY COMPROMISE.—At Durham Assize a deaf old lady who had brought an action for damages against a neighbour was being examined when the judge suggested a compromise, and instructed counsel to ask what she would take to settle the matter.

A WOMAN in Georgina, Co. York, on taking a circular on itch, from her post office box, thus accosted the P. M. "How did you know that we had the itch at our house? I always cautioned the children about scratching in public, and thought it was a secret."

ACCORDING to a Russian custom, the wife of the late Duke of Morny cut off her hair and put it in his coffin as a pledge not to marry again.

BEGGING IN China is a sacred trade. In many cities the begging gains as much as 100,000 taels yearly. At festivals, and especially at wedding ceremonies, which last three days, he sends a deputation to the house of the bride and bridegroom who are obliged to pay them the stipulated ransom.

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY of Boston recently testified, that notwithstanding the most strenuous exertions to enforce the prohibitory liquor law, there has not been a single conviction for five years.

WHEN SHERMAN was at Savannah a toadying civilian ventured upon a mild denunciation of the military abilities of Lieut. Gen. Grant.

HOW MUCH.—If a man sells his watch for fifty dollars, and buys it back for forty dollars, then sells it for forty-five dollars, how much does he make in the transaction?

"Now, Tom," said the printer of a country newspaper in giving directions to his apprentice, "put the 'foreign leaders' into the galleys and lock 'em up—distribute the 'Army in the East'—let 'Napoleon' have a large head—take up a line and finish the 'British ministers'—move the 'Kerry Hunt' out of the case—get your stick and conclude the 'horrid murder' which I began last night—wash your hands and come in to dinner, and then see that all the pie is cleared up."

"What would you think, now," said a Professor who was examining a class in Paley's Natural Theology in relation to the laws of cause and effect, "what would you think if you picked up a watch on the street?"

"Massa," said a black steward to his captain as they fell in with a home bound vessel, "I wish you would write a few lines for me to ole woman, cause I can't write."

All the prizes in the recent donkey show were carried off by one man.—There were nineteen silver cups and they were all stolen by a thief, and had not been recovered at last accounts.

Little three-year-old Mary was playing very roughly with the kitten—carrying it by the tail. Her mother told her she would hurt pussy—

The old adage "that you should not count your chickens before they are hatched," has been rendered by a professor of etiquette, thus:—The producers of poultry should postpone the census of their juvenile fowl till the period of incubation is fully accomplished.

Wanted, the receipt which is given when a gentleman "pays his respects."

Miscellaneous.

Gold! Gold! Gold! Gold! Bright and yellow, hard and cold, Molten, graven, hammer'd and roll'd Heavy to get, and light to hold;

How widely its agencies vary— To save—to ruin—to curse—to bless— As ever its minted coin express, Now stamped with the image of Good Queen Bess,

And now of a Bloody Mary!

Andrew Johnson.

Vice-President of the United States—who now, by the provisions of the Constitution, becomes President—was born in Raleigh N. C., December 29, 1808. At the age of four, he lost his father; at ten he was apprenticed to a tailor, whom he served seven years. While learning his trade, he also learned to read and is emphatically, as was his lamented predecessor, a self-taught man, and of plebeian origin.

While the world endures, men of all nations will read with glistening eyes and throbbing hearts the narrative of the loss of the Birkenhead in Table Bay—how when it was known that the women and children on board could only be saved by the British crew and regiment sacrificing themselves, the grand self-sacrifice was accepted with a calm heroism never equalled.

Similar heroism marked the loss, by fire, of H. M. S. Bombay, and has been evinced a thousand times by British seamen and troops in like cases of sudden and terrible disaster—the grand Anglo-Saxon courage, which, ever free from strife, yet rises equal to any emergency, gives a cool brain and calm pulse in direct danger, recognizes the duty of the moment, and has not a thought for self until that is done.

"What would you think, now," said a Professor who was examining a class in Paley's Natural Theology in relation to the laws of cause and effect, "what would you think if you picked up a watch on the street?"

"Massa," said a black steward to his captain as they fell in with a home bound vessel, "I wish you would write a few lines for me to ole woman, cause I can't write."

A WORD TO YOUNG MEN.

THE man who would prefer one dollar to two, would by common consent be voted a lunatic and void of good sense. Yet there are hundreds of young men working for a salary of Two Hundred Dollars, and even less, who might by devoting a few months to obtaining a Business Education, at a small expense, fit themselves for situations where their services would command twice or thrice that amount.

The history of these great remedies is the most wonderful medical revelation that the world has ever known.

It consists of a compilation of testimonials from the sick of every country—an unimpaired record, the like of which has never been produced in favour of any discovery of medicinal value since time began.

THE GREAT AMBASSADORS OF HEALTH TO ALL MANKIND.

This is not a history written by one man; it is the result of the experiences of one million of men and women.
