The American War

Everything tends to the conviction that the gigantic rebellion which has raged with such fury for the past four years, is literally on its last legs. Since--and even some time before—the fall of Richmond, disaster after disaster has fallen upon the Southern cause, and the haughty cavaliers of the "Old Deminion" and "Palmetto" States have been made to feel what the despised working people of the North can do when the old Anglo-Saxon spirit of obstinacy is aroused. Lee has surrendered, Johnston has followed his example, Mobile and Macon-the last places of importance held by Southern forces-have been captured. Davis and his cabinet have fled, and no war organization worthy of the name can now be said to exist in rebeldom. The Federal Government has given orders that the number of Union soldiers shall be reduced nearly one-half, and all other unnecessary expenses pui a stop to ; while Chief Justice Chase is said to have gone South to re-organize the U. S. comits of law. Gen. Wilson's raid in Alabama and Florida was attended with complete success. He defeated the rebel Gen. Forest at Selma, and after destroying the arsenals and manufactories there, he moved eastward, capturing Montgomery, West Point, Columbus and Macon, scattering his opponents on all L'allory was taken prisoner at Pensacola.

Mr. Thomas R. Feiguson, M.P.P. -commonly but vulgarly called "Tom"-has been deposed from the office of Warden of the County of Simcoe, in consequence of the perpetration of some very fantastic tricks by some of his henchmen, by which he was tor pears he had no right to fill. The case was brought up in Chambers at Osgoode Hall, Toronto the other day, when the following sharp practice was elicited:

On the 24th of January last, the members of the Simcoe County Council met at Barrie, when two candidates-Mr. Ferguson and Mr. G. McManus of Mono-were pro-R. T. He was then declared duly elected Warden. It now turns out thet some six or seven of his supporters' certificates were as invalid as those of the beforementioned Reeves, but the Clerk-quite accidentally of course-did not observe this,

Yankee Impudence.

The following piece of gasconade appeared in a secent issue of Frank Leslie's Illustrated Paper :-

Doubtless many of our readers are aware hat the paper from which the abo ve languate is taken, is one possessing a large circulation in the States, though its chief recommendations appear to be its wretched woodcu illustrations, and its trashy literary conteuts. Its editor, Mr. Frank Leslie, is a renegade Englishman, and like all other renegades, he appears to think that unless he panders to the opinions of a numerous section of his adopted fellow-countrymen, troubled with Anglophobia, he will be looked upon with suspicion. When we bear in mind this fact, our surprise at reading such language as the foregoing is considerably lessened, and nothing coming from such a source will elicit any other feeling than that of disgust. For, after judgment had been given in their favor, in two instances at least, with a magnaminity worthy of a better cause, they gave the defendants credit for half the costs and taxed the people to pay the amount for which their unwarrantable generosity had made them liable.

It is all very well for these Solons to say that they were forced into this line of a tion, but had the same precaution been exercised as is done in ordinary business, the thousands of dollars that have been frittered away in law and the erection of a fabric, would have been saved. The very doors, windows, bricks and timber of the building instinctively, as it were, frown down on those sapient gentlemen who were instrumental in piling up material to be a laughing-stock and a by-word, not only here, but Esq., Oakwood, George Stephenson, Esq., wherever it is known, and the maintenance of which weighs like an incubis on the people, without any prospect of alleviation for vears to come.

Decease was about 71 years of age.

Two MEN DROWNED .- Two men in the employ of M. Boyd, Fsq, were drowned at Long Rapid, Burnt River, on Saturday last, while run ing timber at that place. One these was a young man named Timothy Coilins, son of a hotel keeper of that name at Campbeliford, and the other a voing Frenchman named Cardinal. A third man, who was in much danger, escaped. It is said they undertook to run down without

THE Assassin's Tomb .- We hope the report is true that the Government cas disposed f the body of the assassin Booth in such a way that its resting-place vall never be known. The best thing that his relatives can wish for him is that his name and memory may perish forever; and every consideration of good tiste and public interest demands that no exceuragement should be given to that morbid public appetite which giordies great e-iminsis and craves constant mem rials of their crimes. The grave of the assassin of President, if known, would be visited by thousands for en justice and would become a celebrated resort of segite seer-, whose detestation of the deed would be overborne os modifical by that strange wonder which a ways aurrounds acts of desperate hardshood. BOOTH'S DEATH.

THE " PRESS" ON THE EVENT. The shooting of Booth was a co.d-blooded murder, nothing more or less. Granted that he was a crim had of the deepest dyewas no reason why he should have Deen shot down the way he was. He was a foolish man, but a brave one. He died like one who loved his country deaily, according to his idea of what a noble deal was. From the fuller particulars of the case which we publish to-day, it seems there was no truth in the statement that Booth had fired upon his pursuers; on the contrary he discraimed the idea of desiring to take any lives, very foolishly asking for a slight vantage to fight the who e of his pursue It is ve y evident that the detective gang were a lot of cowa-ds, or they would neve have had recourse to the means they adopted to finish the "brief, eventful history"
