to the moment of his actual capture.

If anybody wants to indulge his vindictive feeting, let him imagine what agonies of retribution and apprehension the assassin has had to live through for ten days past.—New York Tribune.

man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed," has been fulfilled with a strange and impressive litera ness in the late of the assasoin of Preside t Lincoln

Shot, ike his victim, through the head, he perished miserably, after three or four hours of agonized consciousness, in the barn to which, like a hunted rat, he had been driven by the av ngers on his track.

Something possibly may have been lost to justice and the truth of history by the event which has thus defeated us of a full and searching trial of the chief actor in the most scandalous political crime of our days. But we may at least find some compensation for this possibility in the sweeping away of all those circumstances of awe and of dram tic effect which would have surrounded the formal execution of such a oriminal, to separate him in the common mind from criminals of a more fami iar type; and thus to invest his crime and its consequences with a morbid and perilous fascination. In an age which has seen the " rehabilitation" of pretty nearly all the once admitted scoundrels of history, from Catiline and Nero down to Robespierre and Marat, the dismal and altegether unscenic finale of this desperad 's savage and senseless tragedy of president-murder is a thing for wise men to rejoice in .- N. Y. World.

The Montreal Herald says that although dealers. many may regret that booth's punishment was not of that public and degrating character which society awards to criminals, still, the fact that vengeance, with no haiting or uncertain footsteps, has followed hard upon the commi sion of the crime, is the the thing which we have all an interest in knowing, and which is really of the most importance in dealing with crime.

DEATH IN ADJALA.—An inquest was held in Adjala Township, on the 22nd instant, up-on the body of Mary Ann Pierce, aged three years. The evidence went to show that the mother locked up two little children in the house, and visited a neighbour. After stopping away some hours, she returned home, and found one of her children burned to death, A verdict of accidental death by fire was re-
