BACHELOR'S HALL.

Bachelor's Hall! what a quare looking place it is ! Keep me from it all the days of my life; Sure, but I think what a burning disgrace it is, Niver at all to be getting a wife.

See the old Bachelor, gloomy and sad enough, Placing the tay-kittle over the fire; Soon it tips over—St. Patrick, he's mad enough, (If he were present) to fight with the Squire.

Now like a hog in a mortar bed wallowing, (Awkward enough) see him kneading his dough; Froth! if the bread he could eat without swallowing, How it would dayour his palate you know.

His dish-cloth is missing, the pigs are devouring it,
In the pursuit he has battered his shin-I plate wanted washing, the cat she is scouring it; Murder and turf! what a pickle he's in! Pots, dishes, and pans; sich greasy commodities Ashes and other things kiver the floor, His cupboard's a storehouse of comical oddities Things that had never been neighbours before ed to "pay az yn go."

His meal being over the table's left sitting so; Dishes, take care of yourselves if you can!
But hunger returns, then he's faming and fretting so;
Och! let him alone for a baste of a man!

Late in the night be goes to bed shivering— Never a bit is the bed made at all: He croeps li'te a terrapin under the kiverin'-Bad luck to the picture of Bachelor's Hall!
