Then there are low, deep, strong voices, where the words seem ground out, as if the man owed humanity a grudge and meant to pay it some day. That man's opponents may well tremble, and his friends may trust his strength of purpose and ability to act.

There is the coarse, boisterous, dictatorial tone invariably adopted by vulgar persons, who have not sufficient cultivation to understand their own insignificance,

There is the incredulous tone that is full of a covert sneer, or a secret "You can't dupe-me-sir" intonation,

Then there is the whining, beseechful voice that says "sycophant" as plainly as if it uttered the word. It cajoles and flatters you: its words say, "I love you-I admire you; you are every thing that you should be."

Then there is the tender, musical, compassionate voice that sometimes goes with sharp features, as they merely indicate intensity of feeling, and sometimes with blunt features, but always with genuine

If you are full of affectation and pretence, your voice proclaims it. It you are full of honesty, strength and purpose, your voice proclaims it.

If you are cold, calm, and firm, and consistent, or fickle, and foolish, and deceptions, your voice will be equally truth-telling.

You cannot wear a mask without being known you wear one. You cannot change your voice from a natural to an unnatural tone without its being known that you are doing so.

WHAT AN IRON BAR BECAME. -A bar of iron worth $5, worked into horse shoes, is worth $330; made into knife blades, it is worth $3,285; made into balance springs for watches, it is worth $250,000. . What a drilling the poor bar of iorn must undergo to reach all that: but, hammered and beaten and pounded and rolled and rubbed and polished, how I have been an invalid, unable to step was its value increased? It might well bave complained under the hard knocks it a year ago I heard of the Granicular got; but were they not necessary to draw Syrup. I bought a bottle, smelt the cork, out its fine qualities, and fit it for higher and found myself a man. I can now run out its fine qualities, and fit it for higher offices? And so all the drilling and training to which you are subject, all the trials and hardships, thumps and pains which ness in the world.

Out on the porch, by the open door,
Sweet with roses, and cool with shade,
Baby is creeping over the floor—
Dear little winsome blue-syed maid!

All about her the shadows dance, All above her the roses swing, Sunbeams in the lattice glance, Robins up in the branches sing.

Up at the blossoms her fingers reach,
Lisping her pleading in broken words,
Cooing away in her tendet speech,
Songe like the twitter of nestling birds. Orceping, creeping over the floor, Soon my birdie will find her wings, Fluttering out at open door, Into the wonderful world of things.

Bloom of roses and balm of dew,
Brooks that bubble, and winds that call,
All things lovely and glad and new,
And the Father watching us over it all.

SONG.

It is the Lady of Kienart Tower,
Of love she will not hear,
And she sits alone in her mountain bower,
Tho' woo'd by Prince and Peer. For she has made a vow in her pride,
Her husband none shall call,
But he who shall round her castle ride.
On the edge of its outer wall.

Oh! the castle wall is narrow, And the castle wall is high, And the brain would reel were you but to stand

And the brain would reet were you but
And gaze on the gulf anigh;
And the bones of many a rider bold
Lie mouldering down in the dell,
While that lady proud sits in her hold,
And laughs as all were well.

It is Sir Albert of Thuringy,
Who kneels to the maiden now;
She has looked but once on his dark blue eye, And she rues her cruel-vow.
She loves at last, and she shudders to see

The knight on his courser bound;
But her fears are vain' for he gallops as free
As though it were listed ground. The lady hath donned her richest weed To meet that champion bold, But he lights not down from his sable steed,

And his speech is scornful and cold: I have wooed and won a fairer bride, And if single would not wed thee:
I perilled my life but to humble thy pride,
And to punish thy cruelty."

The following purports to be a model medical puff: "Dear Doctor—I shall be one hundred and seventy five years old next October. For over eighty-four years except when moved with leavre. But twelve miles and a half an hour, and throw thirteen somersaults without stopping."

THE DUTCH FLAG STILL WAVES, I regardless of, and unhurt by, the terrific roar and mighty (?) elements at war without, threatening complete annihilation to all the unprotected objects of their fury. And there it intends to remain, for it has no need of removal, as all sane people know the standard-bearer's prowess and reputation is too well established for that, and he wishes to remind the public that the recent squalls are Liere gusts of wind which soon pass away.

He moreover begs to announce that under the head of WATCH-MAKING, he is confident of the ability to surpass even the efforts of "the best (?) workman" outside of his own shop, as he employs neither puffer nor blower, but a steady, experienced and skillful hand, who not only thoroughly understands the "watch in all parts," but the parts of every watch in all their complications, as the "discriminating" public are well aware of, and also of his capabilities to repair accordingly any deficiencies therein. Neither is the proprietor driven to the necessity of soliciting custom on the streets and public highways, thereby interrupting the free course of trade; but his standing principle is to deal fairly and honestly with every man, woman and child, and in that capacity finds little time to talk politics, or build up imaginary castles plete assortment of filled with sundry groceries and liquors, buildings doomed never to rise above the level of an inflated brain.
