Communications. A SUGGESTION.

(To the Editor of THE CANADIAN POST.) Sir,—On more than one occasion I have been accosted in Lindsay by respectable strangers desiring information as to the names of various streets in town, and in so far as my knowledge extended I have always given such information with pleasure, as I am glad to see people coming amongst us with the view of making themselves acquainted with the resultrees and accounts of the contract of the contrac the resources and prospects of our pretty town. Now, although I have been a resident in the place for a number of years, there are many streets with the names of which I am still in a state of ignorance. Would it not be well, therefore, under the circumstances for the Town Council to cause a sufficient number of small signs to be provided, having the names of the streets painted thereon, placed on the corners, so that all may become possessed of the desired information. In many cities and towns which I have visited I have observed this has been done.

LINDSAY ASSESSMENT. (To the Editor of THE CANADIAN POST.)

Sir,-Your attack in THE Post of last week on Mr. Smart for fixing the assessment roll of Lindsay so as to increase the Tory vote and diminish the Reform vote has placed me in an awkward As it is well known I was joint-a with Mr. Smart to make the assessment complained of, and that I have always worked with the Reform Party, it would be inferred from the article referred to that I either lent myself to the unmanly and cowardly practice of stabbing that party in the dark,—that party that has done so much for this country even this last year, and which I am confident will last year, and which I am confident will govern this county with even-handed justice for years to come, or that I was exceedingly incapable to do the work I had undertaken to do.

I had from day to day to get Mr. Smart to correct his errors which he or any one else might make and which he did as soon as pointed out to him; but (and I kept a watch to it) I never had to point out to him that he had put down a name or altered a figure in order to give the Tory party any advan-tage because he never did the like in my presence. I challenge any one to show that the assessment in the town of this year has diminished the Reform vote more than it has the Tory vote.

Your remarks on the way the assess-ors took the census of Lindsay for this year must excite amusement from any person acquainted with the matter. You. "We know of several instances this ar where only the head of a large ly, sir, you do know of severalsuch in-stances. Were the assessors totake the census of the different persons who own property in the different Wards in town they would be increasing the population of the town at an amazing rate; many of the ratepayers would then ap-pear to have two or three wives and of course as many families. Such a census taking would suit the fastest spirit in town and give our return of census such a mormonic character that we might have Brigham Young or some of his sup-have for the past few years shown an increase of only 80 or 100 over the previous year, those of the assessors for this year have shown an increase of more than 600 over those of last year; which does not include some seventy or more hving on public property and exempt from taxes, thus showing that the return this year was not loosely or in-correctly made.

In conclusion, I beg to say that neither Mr. Smart or myself have paid any attention to politics or anything else in making the present assessment, except to make such an equalized as sessment—an assessment that would compel every person owning or occupying property in town to pay his or her fair share of the taxes. We have succeeded in assessing some forty thousand dollars on property which was never as-sessed before, though the same has been in town for years.

We have not permitted any shrewd ratepayers to fool the assessors into cheating the town by allowing them selves to be taxed on only a few hun dred dollars income instead of several thousand dollars as personal property. We have gone to the trouble to each lot and house separately and to assess for a fair portion of the amount, rom which rule we did not recede from friend or foe, not even to benefit your humble servant,
