This church is received in protected from morey. This church is gaved from the morey. This church is gaved from the approaches to it improved at the approaches to it improved at the public expense. Why should those interested in it not pay for all these according to the value of their property? Oh it is an ornament to the city. So are and the consideration of an sating problem connected thereorder, as there is a grateful item showing the number of debts paid appears of a day by a hundred dollar bill mexpect. It is said Mr. Konneth Mackenste, all the said of the said means of the compound. We believe before evening that St.O had cleared off a dozen scores. The paragraph illustrates the extent to which credit is carried; and shewed the comparatively small amount required to lubricate the "whoels of commoree" and put the machine integrated upon to put this financial machine integrated. Some covery suggishly; and they are asked to supply the lubricating influence. Some resent this, not unnaturally, they can supply the ploton thank, which can in fact be desired from print for questions. The question is frequently from the provides of the canadian act. The decision attraction in the constitutional bearings, as incorrectly stated last work in the canadian act. and that an English copyright is in force in all the colonies. The question is important to the print of the later Harriet Marting the properties of the canadian act. and that are finished particles generally. In the case of Smith v. Beliance of the comparatively small amount required to lubricate the "whoels of commoree" and put the machine in the copyright case of Smith v. would not receive any particular actention be disallowed as it innices a terrible blow on British connection. But now it appears Lord Carnavon wrote Lord Dufferin on the 20th Ausults. EXEMPTIONS FROM TAXATION One of the most important and most

the public is the abolition of the exemptions from taxation, and the ensuring partiamentary ressions should not emptions from taxation, and the ensuhave their orders booked at ing parliamentary sessions should not one powerful "factor" in the Consermovement in this direction. We be> oreased greatly in power and volume ed Ottawa correspondent of the Perth with the past few years. The case is Courier writes as follows on a matter very simple. There is very little to wherein Mr. Gibbs displayed more be said in favour of exemptions. They are defended now more from prejudice "Mr. Buckingham, the Premier's priand mistaken interest than from anyand mistaken interest than from anything else. We observe the Hon. Mr. Fraser at Dunville said a word or two in favour of church exemptions. He argued that churches if taxed would not be as expensive or ornamental as they now are. We notice the Globe which has been greatly overaworked, and was absent two weeks on a vacation tour, some of the Tory newspapers which has long advected abelities and not of an investment on behalf of the road. This looks like a formidaple basis on which to build up an inple basis on which to build up an in-teresting Chancery suit which would effectually unmask the hypocritical leeches who have been playing ducks and drakes for years with the money of ing in their sleeves." The same correspondent has since stated that Mr.J.

D. Edgar, whose name rumour connected, with some of these improper transactions, appeared before the committee and fully cleared himself.

LITERARY NOTES. Commercial gives a clew to the mystery of "Daniel Deronda." It says: "There is a great deal of discussion of the purshe is suspected of writing the book to please her husband. She studied Jow-ish history with great care as a prepa-ration for this work, and it is said by her friends that in the course of her studies, having this relation, she read

New Books. -- We have received from Belford Bros., of Toronto, clearly printed and handsomely bound editions of "Tom Sawyer" and "The Old Lieutenant and his Son." Belford Bros. are enterprising and discriminating publishers and have favoured the Canadian public with some excellent reading in year good form and at less Canadian public with some excellent reading in very good form and at less cost than American or English publitien that they are encouraging native industry. The books named are for sale at Porter's.

ic customs of the East; the carnivo-rous plants of Florida; and a sketch with portrait of the late Harriet Mar-tineau. The "Easy chair" is very clever and entertaining and the other Edito-rial departments are up to their usual known as "Hell Clate," and seriously interfered with navigation via Long Island Sound. This was mined and heavily charged with rend-rock, dynamite and nitro-elycerine, all of which were exploded in the presence of vast crowds. There was great dread of a cited with the short space of five pages, and illustrates them with four crosllent diagrams. Mrs. Oliphant's series on "Windsor Castle" is conclud-

Mr. R. Dickson, whose executive capacity and good temper were continually on trial, but who discharged his onerous duties promptly and with unfailing courtesy. To the right of this is an "annex" containing a number of elegantly finished buggies and further on are the spacious stalls for the swine and sheep, upwards of one hundred in number. The easternend of the grounds is occupied by sheds for the cattle and the north end by a race course and stables for horses on exhibition. The arrangements of the latter are very complete and commendable. There are ninety-two spacious double stalls divided by partitions—a feature that received the hearty approval of horse exhibitors. Around the hall outside were placed a vast number of farming implements of various kinds and makes which received much attention, owing to the merit possessed by some. South of the palace is a well constructed henery in which the cages containing the fowls were placed on shelves convenient for inspection. A very large number of entries were made in this department and the exhibit was to make the drawings technically correct. That unveracious warbler authorized the Tory leader to predict that the bill would be disallowed as it inflicted a terrible blow on British connection.

But now it appears Lord Carnavon wrote Lord Dufferin on the 20th August that "Hor Majesty will not be "advised to exercise her power of dis" allowance with respect to the Act of "allowance with respect to the Act of "and control Exchequer for the Do" minion of Canada." This despatch is officially published in the Canada for one powerful "factor" in the Canada for one powerful "factor" in the Canada active "reaction."

—Mr. North Ontario Gibbs is being severely handled by some of our Reform cotemporaries. The well-informed by the Corrier writes as follows on a matter wherein Mr. Gibbs displayed more the secretary, is a most indefatigable worker, and possesses a measure of confidence which, we venture to say, was no never before enjoyed by the private secretary, of any minister of the Crown. He has been greatly oversworked, and because he visited Thunder Bay, and was absent two weeks on a vacation tour, some of the Tory newspapers have been mean enough to suggest that the bill work for fire places and was absent two weeks on a vacation tour, some of the Tory newspapers have been mean enough to suggest that the control of the Crown. He has been greatly oversworked, and was absent two weeks on a vacation tour, some of the Tory newspapers have been mean enough to suggest that the first proper in the form of the control of the Crown of the C and artisans should have been on hand with their best specimens of workmanship; and the farmers of Victoria should have been among the most numerous exhibitors. One excuse is made—that a good many were holding back for next year, when the fair is to be held in Lindsay. That is not a commendable spirit; and it is to be hoped it will not again be manifested. It is quite unworthy a progressive, enterprising place like Lindsay; and does not spring from a praiseworthy feeling. All those in the district should do their best to contribute to every show, with-train—a most uncomfortable hour, or by the 4 afternoon train, and thereby have to remain over night in the Port Hope hotels. There should have been Hope hotels. There should have been a special excursion train leaving Lindsay at 7 or 8 in the morning and returning in the evening; and had this arrangement been made and duly announced there is little doubt but the attendance from Victoria county would have been vastly increased.

The question is important in its constitutional bearings, as well as in its effect upon trade; and it is to be regretted that Canadian publishers do not combine and appeal the case to a higher court as there is a well-grounded belief that the decision of the Vice-Chanceller will not hold.

The distinguished author gives many interesting facts and explanations in the short space of five pages, and illustrates them with four excellent diagrams. Mrs. Oliphant's series on "Windoor Castle" is concluded in the present number with a paper on "Queen Victoria." DUMINION NOTES.

A very large number of entries were made in this department and the exhibit was the best-ver seen in this section. There is any number of refreshment booths on the ground, but so far the weather has been detrimental to the ginger bread and lemonade business, and the vendors are not reaping a golden harvest.

THE EXHIBITION BUILDING, constructed on the "crystal palace" style, is a lofty, substantial frame building, well lighted throughout. Although it is spacious—and much larger than the Peterboro drill shed used last year it proved too small to display to the best advantage the large number of exhibits, and a great many articles, were placed rather "promiscuous."

Much more room might have been had, however, if a large amount of space had not been allotted to druggists and others in Port Hope for showing their wares merely as an advertisement, and the promise of the wares merely as an advertisement, and the promise of the same day.
