SPECIAL NOTICES.

Epps's Cocoa.—Grateful and Comforting.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of the digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame.—Civil Service Gazette. Sold only in packets by Epps's & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, 48 Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly, London.

A SCOTCH HYMN.

There are blossoms that hae budded,
Been blighted in the cauld,
And lammies that hae perished
Because they left the fauld;
But cower ye a' aneath His wings
Wha died upon the tree,
And gathered in His bosom
Helpless weans like you and me.

In the warld there's tribulation,
In the warld there is wae;
But the warld it is bonnie,
For our Father made it sae.
Then brichten up yer armour,
And be happy as ye ocht;
Though the sky be often clouded,
It winna be for lang.

WIT AND WISDOM.

—Night-lights—Glow-worms.
—Harmless revolvers—Planets.
—A notorious eavesdropper—Rain.
—A beneficial strike—Striking a job.
—'Twas ever so—To owe is human.
—Counter-claims—Your wife's shopping bills.
—Sweet meets—Two fond lovers in a first embrace.
—A truism—An expensive wife makes a pensive husband.
—He that lags behind in a road that many are driving, will always be in a cloud of dust.
—"Capital punishment," as the boy said when the school-mistress seated him with the girls.
—The entire assets of a recent bankrupt were nine children. The creditors acted magnanimously, and let him keep them.
—"What is the interior of Africa principally used for?" asked a teacher of a pupil. "For purposes of exploration," was the reply.
—Athletic sports for ladies: jumping at conclusions; walking around a subject; running through a novel; skipping full descriptions.
—An Illinois editor, having lost his scissors, writes: "We are called upon to mourn the loss of one of the best and most trustworthy assistants the world ever knew."
—The editor of a Nevada paper says of a "rough customer" who recently died at the bottom of a deep mine out there, "That his altered soul was saved half-a-mile of transportation."
—A postal-card was lately received at the Fitchburg, Mass., post-office, addressed to "Mr. K——, the man that works in the factory and got the car-load of potatoes at Winthrop, N.H., last year."
—A minister, when preaching on the occasion of churching a new magistracy, without any intention to insult, unfortunately took as his text, "The wicked walk on every side, when the vilest men are exalted."
—An old Scotchman being informed by a betting acquaintance that "his friend the captain" would obligingly hold the stakes, the canny northerner replied, "Ay, ay, that's a very weel, but——he nand the captain
—There is a man in a certain town who never loses a chance of chasing money slip by him. Last winter when he had the ague he hired himself out to a carpet-cleaning establishment to assist in shaking carpets.
—"Why is it, my dear sir," said Waffles' landlady to him, the other day, "that you newspaper men never get rich?" "I do not know," was his reply, "except it is that dollars and sense do not travel always together."
—A Yankee has just had a piece of window glass, more than two inches long, taken from his leg, where it had been for 15 years. It may be truly said that during that entire period he has never been absolutely free from pane.
—When a Yankee finds an old well so fearfully and wonderfully distasteful that pigs won't drink from it he immediately builds a big hotel, lays out a racecourse, and becomes the leading millionaire of a fashionable summer resort.
—A Frenchman has discovered why Eve ate the apple in Eden. The gentlemanly devil, presenting the forbidden fruit to her, remarked, "Mon Mr. Adam eat ze appel he will become like our Dieu; but you, Mme. Iv., cannot become more of a goddess than you are." The compliment settled the question.
—A party were enjoying the evening breeze on board a yacht. "The wind has made my moustache taste quite salt," remarked a young man who had been for some time occupied in biting the hair that fell over his upper lip. "I know it," innocently said a pretty girl. And she wondered why all her friends laughed. "People are so childish," she remarked.
—Most of us have had troubles all our lives, and each day has brought all the evil that we wished to endure. But, if we were asked to recount the the sorrows of our lives, how many could we remember? How many that are six months old should we think worthy to be remembered or mentioned? To-day's troubles look large, but a week hence they will be forgotten.
—A Scotchman, being examined by his minister, was asked, "What kind of a man was Adam?" "Oh just like ither folk." The minister insisted on having a more specific description of the first man, and pressed for more explanation. "Weel," said the catechuman, "he was jist like Joe Simpson, the horse-couper." "How so" asked the minister. "Weel, nabody got onything by him, and mony lost."
—The last sitter at a private dinner in Edinburgh, who had at length made up his mind that it was time to retire, announced his intention to the butler; and, fancying that he saw something like a smile in the servant's face, he turned gravely round, saying, "Ay, John, I think I'll go to bed; but I'm no' fou, John, mind that; I'm no' the least fou; but I'm just fathomed (sic) drinking."
—The Rev. James Oliphant, of Dumbarton, adopted a peculiar but sufficiently ingenious method of proving the wicked disposition of the devil. He remarked that every aspect of his name was bad. From the word devil, which in itself means an accuser or enemy, take the d, and you have the word evil; remove the v and the remainder is oil; take away the o and it is ill; and the sound of the last letter reminds you of the name of the bottomless pit.
—During a debate which took place some time ago in a Scottish Town Council on a question where much diversity of opinion prevailed, a bailie, among other reasons in support of the measure, stated that it would be of immense benefit to posterity. On hearing this, the provost, who headed the opposition, got up and said, "I'm really surprised to hear ony man bring forward sic an argument. What reason hae we to sacrifice ourselves for the gude o' posterity? Point oot," he continued, striking the table, and looking triumphantly at his opponent—"point oot ae single instance whaur posterity has ever been o' the least benefit to us!"
