This is, under the circumstances, the meanest of the Warder's many spiteful attacks on the Hon. Mr. Wood, but calls for only brief comment on our part, as public opinion will at once on all sides condemn such unworthy political warfare. We shall not attempt to characterize this attack as it deserves. The fact that Mr. Wood did not spoak at any of the Reform demonstrations requires neither explanation nor defence, the veryone knows that he was hard at work in his department, and being a new Treasurer is not to be adjudged until he makes his budget speech. His departmental duties in the meantime have been theroughly performed; and we have no coubt that when the House meets he will prove himself the right. Just now, we regret to have to say, Mr. Wood is kept at his home in Lindsay by the serious illness of nearly all the members of his family. Owing to this cause, as is well known in town, he has been absent from his department for two or three weeks past, but ment for two or three weeks past, but tween members of the Committee acting as examiners, and one of the master and present offer an opinion regarding it; but we are informed that some thirty years ago when the original Purdy dam at his place was lowered from eight feet to five or six feet—an operation statics for the examination of July last prepared it in such a way as to promote the sale of a work on "Statics" by the same Normal School master, Mr. Kirkstand or the district suffered greatly and got a bad name that it retained for years.
