Correction.—Mr. P. Fox writes us in correction of a paragraph in The Post of last week to the effect that Dr. Wood had charge of his case all through, and sent for Dr. Kempt for consultation. His case was one of colic, to which he had been subject, Dr. Kempt having attended him in a similar, but not so severe ab attack, in Emily only a few weeks before. In justice to Dr. Wood Mr. Fox is bound to say that Dr. Kempt fully agreed with his treatment of the case and continued it, and the result has been as predicted. Mr. Fox is satisfied that his case has been properly attended to from dirst to last, and ir. Kempt acted the gentleman in consulting with Dr. Wood, whose good opinion he has gained as well as Mr. Fox's. A Frenchman calling himself Campbell, and claiming to be a watch-
