The sale of Messes, Herron & Son, which took place at the 'Palmore Farm' on Thursday, 18th Jan., was quite a success. Although the prices realized were not as large as we have seen, yet they were upon the whole very satisfactory. The weather was somewhat storiny in the morning, yet by nine o'clock the day promised all that could be desired, and by one o'clock there was an immense crowd gathered from all parts of the country. Amongst those present from a distance were noticed Messers. Hunter of Alma. Croff of Elmira. Spider of German Mills, Shore of London, Hell of Athelstone, Que., Thompson of St. Marys, Sheldon of Illinois, Squires of Owen Sound, Cookson of Illinois, Squires of Owen Sound, Cookson of Illinois, Isaace of Bowmanton, Rowe of Illinois, Sowdowsky of Illinois, Staples of Cavan, Heith, Murdoch, Shaw and Allen of Howman ille, Grant and Campbell of Woodville, besides a number of American gentlemen whose names we did not learn. The following are the names of animals sold and the mames of buyers: Jan., was quite a success. Although the prices

Church Anniversary.

The tea-meeting in connection with the anniversary of the Methodist church, which was announced for Tuesday evening, was postponed until Thursday evening of this week. It was full that the counter attraction of the reception to the successful curiers would draw away a large number who would otherwise be present. The meeting is being held as we go to press and is, no doubt, successful.

As if to back up what was printed in the communication by Mr. Walters in last week's Post, a dense, heavy fog travelled over the east ward during several nights of last week. It was so thick that the locomotives could hardly find the way to the station. Gas, and plenty of it, is needed in the east ward.

it is surprising how improved methods of production have cheapened articles and goods which a few years ago were high-priced. An illustration of this is seen in the excellent production known as "Evan's cheap music," which gives for a trifle all the popular songs and instrumental pieces. (1. A. Metherell, bookseller, is the sole agent in Lindsay for the sale of this music, and has a large stock just coming in.

Mr. John Robertson of Ope purchased the other day from Mr. Bateman of Mariposa (south of Taylor's corners) for $250 a fine mare coming i yrs., in foal to an imp. Clyde ... Mr. Robertson sold a young horse to Mr. Boyd the other day for $170. The fine barp on Mr. Robertson's farm, being built by Mr. Bryans of Lindsay, will be a splendid edifice of its kind. It is 60 x 40, with stone foundation and stalling for twenty head of cattle, and root-house and other conveniences underneath. It will cost when finished $800.

An effort is being made by the young men engaged in the local bookstores and by the proprietors to close the places of business at seven o'clock in the evening. This is a right step to take. Hooksellers have just as good a claim to spend their evenings out of the stores as poorer people, such as printers, and carriage makers, for instance. Besides there is curling, skating, shorthand, the temperance society and a host of other things to attend to. By all means give the boys their evenings to themselves.

At Port Hope last week Rev. C. H. Copeland presented a petition to the town council. The petition was signed by all the residents of the town. The opinion of the memorialists was that the by-laws of the town were not being efficiently carried out, and that "immediate steps be taken by you for enfercing the by-laws in general, but especially those relating to profanity, drunkenness and loading on the streets, and that the by-law that prohibits racing on the public streets be amended so as to prohibit also racing in the town park."

The Peterboro Examiner dolefully remarks:

"The reaction following the rush of the holiday trade, and the stirring sweep of the holiday events, has left trade as flat as the fall of a circusjoke. Merchants grumble at the duliness of trade, and everything else appears to be flat, stale and unprofitable. Both commercial and news circles are suffering from the dyspepsia consequent in indulgence in holiday business." Things are and have been booming in Lindsay since the holidays, and there was the liveliest kind of business at that period as well.

kind of business at that period as well.

Matters at the gas works are so far completed that upon the arrival of a quantity of crude oil, which has been ordered, gas will be made. We understand that a subscription list is in circulation to defray the expense of putting up a number of designs in piping, which would be perforated and from which gas would be burnt the first night the gas is turned on the mains. These would probably be supplemented by designs got up by private effort. With regard to this class of work either Mr. E. Wood, Mr. Howe or Mr. J. Smith of the gas works will give every information.

On Saturday afternoon while playing "crack the whip" in the skating rink. Stanley Smyth, a little follow about afteen years of age, son of Mr. Robert Smyth, merchant, who was at the end of the "lash," was forcibly detatched from the others and thrown with great violence against a piece of scantling at the lower end of the rink. The sharp corner of the scantling struck him on the shin bone a little below the knee and cut a gaping wound about two inches long and in to the bone. A dector was sent for and sewed up the wound. He was then driven home and is doing nicely.

home and is doing nicely.

Referring to an equipment of new scenery for Bradburn's opera house at Peterboro the Examiner says: "There have been used on the scenery over 100 yards of canvas, and no expense has been spared to make the stage machinery and appliances of Bradburn's opera house as good as the size will permit. It is now so arranged and equipped that no travelling company need fear of meeting any lack in scenery pany need fear of meeting any lack in scenery or stage appliances in coming to Peterborough. A corresponding drop curtain and new set of scenery have also been painted for the Lindsay opera house, under Mr. Bradburn's management." home and is doing nicely.

—The four engines which were in the round house at Uxbridge at the time the building was destroyed are reported to be so badly damaged as not to be worth repairing. As they were narrow gauge engines their loss will probably have considerable bearing on the question of widening the gauge of the Nipissing from Lorneville Junction north to Coboconk. It is not likely that if new engines are purchased for use on teis branch of the Midland system that they would be of the narrow gauge pattern.

—On Monday evening Mr. J. G. Macklin, engineer of the Midland, arrived in Lindsay by the night train. On Tuesday morning he went over the road as far as Wick on the Nipissing branch. We believe that Mr. Macklin's visit was in connection with the immediate opening up of the Wick branch. It is understood that the order has been given to clear the snow off the track and to ballast the line where it is practicable in such a way that the line can be used for traffic at once.

-Material has been ordered by the Midland railway authorities for the construction of a new round-house at Uxbridge. The new building will be of brick and built in the most substantial manner. The building destroyed a short time ago was a wooden structure, and none but narrow gauge engines were burned in it. It is proposed to put up a "three stall" building just at present, but the foundation will be built in such a manner that the accommodation can be enlarged at any time. Mr. J. L. Hughes, master builder for the Midland railway, was in Lindsay the earlier part of the week with the object of purchasing brick for the building from one of our local brick-makers.

The Paper Mill Accident Inquest. On Friday evening of last week an inquest was held on the body of James McIntyre, one of the unfortunate men injured at the paper mill the unfortunate men injured at the paper mill last week, and whose injuries resulted in death. The inquest was held on a requisition to Dr. Poole, coroner, and authorized by the county attorney. The inquest was opened at the house of the deceased late in the afternoon and adjourned to the town hall at 7 o'clock in the evening. From the evidence adduced it appeared that since Mr. McKay's removal there was no responsible manager, the men in the several departments having instructions to continue work as before until a new manager could be appointed. The scalding occurred in the straw-room, where the material in large tube is subjected to the action of steam to prepare it for the beating engines. The room is a large one open to the rafters, the steam is supplied by a large pipe from the boilers, the supply regulated by a vaive to each tub. The work in this room was in charge of Mr. J. Price, whose duty it was to regulate the supply of steam. On the day the blow out occurred he was not at work, having had his foot scalded the day previous. In his absence the men who were injured undertook to continue the work, although ignorant of the regulation of the steam. The consequence was that the vaive was open either too wide or left open too long, and a certain point of intensity being reached the contents of the vat were blown up into the air, falling in showers of scalding material and water on the men. Mr. Price, although apparently aware of the danger to the men in the absence of a proper regulation of the steam, neglected to send any warning to the men, apparently taking it for granted that they would do as he had done, although never having given them any instructions. A number of witnesses, general hands employed in the mill, gave evidence relative to the danger in the room when the steam was not properly regulated. The jury after due deliberation returned a verdict:—'1. That the deceased, James McIntyre, came to the absence of Jos. Price, the foreman of that department, and his duties of regulating the steam being ast week, and whose injuries resulted in death. The inquest was held on a requisition to Dr.

NUGGETS OF KNOWLEDGE

FOR BARGAIN SEEKERS.

LADIES!

Again we greet you with a new announcement that is sure to please and give satisfaction. Everything must be done in a hurry to be acceptable. Time is more valuable than it was away back in the world's history when men lived nine hundred years. The gist of our subject is to tell you that we are getting ready for stock-taking at the City Store, and that means we are prepared to give you some glorious bargains in all classes of winter Dry Goods, Carpets, Furs, &c. Stock-taking is a general stirring up of things, a dragging from their hiding places of over-look ed goods, a calling to account of slow selling stock, a paring down of prices. Its a season of comparisons, of discoveries-yes, of surprises-the time when everything must come to the surface.

In this annual overturning of stock we naturally find many things that we don't care to account for in our yearly stock-taking, and that we prefer getting rid of before the final accounting for takes place. Such for instance, as goods that will lose much of their value by being kept, broken lots, odd ties, odd ribbons, odd laces, odd silks odd dress goods, odd mantle cloths, remnants of every description. These, we repeat, we don't care to take in stock, and will make it to your interest to take them from us. We've done this by making the selling prices so low that the fact of their being great bargains is beyond question, indeed great bargains for of the two marks on each article the cost and price—the former is invariably much greater.

Fast age this, isn't it! No sooner do we get through clothing you for one season than we are advising you of new goods for the next, but before doing that we want t tell you that we are stock-taking at present and will not get through until 1st of February. Between times if you are in need of any clothing, an extra coat, extra pants, extra vest or an overcoat you can have it made to order cheaper and for less money than at any other season the year. Why! We are anxious to reduce our stick : the lowest possible point before reckoning day. Can avail yourselves of the opportunity.

IN READY-MADE CLOTHING Overcoats, Suits, Pants, Vests and old Coats, we may only a few left and what we have will be sold at the close prices you ever beheld-prices that will open you ex-

Gents' Furnishings and Gents' Furs have likewise received marching orders, and no matter how stubborn the resistance they are bound to move at the reduced prices. It would pay you to buy now as keep over for another season, but half the winter in a gone yet so that you can get value out of them this year OUR SPRING STOCK will be the largest and handsomest lot of imported w ens we have ever shown, and the bulk of the goods are now on the way, hence the extra push we are making SOOTHERAN, CATHRO & MARK,

25 CASES CANNED TOMATOES,

GREEN, EVAPORATED AND DRIED APPLES. CANNED FRUITS and SHELL FISH,

FRENCH PRUNES and FRENCH PLUMS. NOTICE.—With a view of closing my shop at an early hour on Saturday night, one of my young men will call on my town customers during Friday of each week and take their orders for supplies. These orders will be delivered early Saturday morning, and will, it is expected, be a convenience to my customers and assist us in early closing. A. CAMPBELL.
