THE TRAVEL VALLEY CANAL. Poor last week. Anania was simply "left" and it was not before covered the channel with stones of Mrs. Poor and the reform party. Mr. Fee is now no doubt sorry he did it. It was worth more than $10, and did not succeed anyway. Mr. Fee should keep better company than the miserable little clique running the Warter.

Mr. Fee is now no doubt sorry he did it. It was worth more than $10, and did not succeed anyway. Mr. Fee should keep better company than the miserable little clique running the Warter. The Warter wants Mr. McLennan to pay over $100. This is an absurd and preposterous demand. The time has expired, but if the Warter believes it has a good case let it publish the affidavit, names and all, upon which it demands the money. Then the inconsistencies of the two affidavits would be apparent to the public, and the names of the affidavit-makers would show something more of the true inwardness of the conspiracy.

Lennox was carried for A. H. Roe by an extravagant use of funds from Ottawa. Sir John was bound to have old Lennox carried by his followers at any expense. A scathing and vigorous description of Mr. Roe's peculiarities and inconsistencies by the Express so much exasperated Mr. Roe that he instituted an action for criminal libel against Mr. W. M. O'Brien, the editor and proprietor, and would have had him put in goal. Mr. O'Brien was promptly called by two of the most influential citizens of Niagara, and now calmly awaits further procedure on the part of Mr. Roe. The latter wishes he had not done it; and the case will in all probability break down or prove much more damaging to the prosecutor than to the defendant.

The defeat of Mr. H. M. Deroche in Addington causes universal regret in the house and county. An able and useful member and a faithful representative, it seemed most likely that his twelve years' experience and his fine talents would render his elevation to a seat in the cabinet a proper step in a highly creditable career. Mr. Deroche's name has been frequently connected with the treasury department, and latterly with the education portfolio. In either he would have been a success, but he was eminently fitted by training and experience for the position of minister of education. We hope Mr. Deroche's absence from our legislative halls will not be of long duration. He was defeated undoubtedly by the use of improper agencies on the part of or on behalf of his opponent.

THE RESULT OF THE CONTEST. The result of the elections leaves Mr. Mowat with a safe majority of at least twelve, and probably fourteen. The Tory Ottawa Citizen, an excellent authority under the circumstances, admits that Mr. Mowat has a majority of ten, giving him Mr. Neilson of Lincoln and Mr. Gillies of Bruce, both of whom will undoubtedly support the government. It properly claims Mr. Lee of Lanark, and also Mr. Hart of Prince Edward, though the latter promised to support the government on the boundary award and steams bill questions. The voting takes place in Algoma and Muskoka on Tuesday next, and, giving one to each side, the Mowat administration will be quite safe, and with a majority about as large as it had in 1875.

LIBERAL SUCCESS IN NEW BRUNSWICK. The conservative local government in New Brunswick, after hanging on for several days, have at last resigned and the Liberals have been called to the management of provincial affairs. Mr. Blair has taken office as attorney general and Mr. W. Blair becomes provincial secretary. The other members of the new government are Messrs. Mitchell, Gillespie, Van Turner and Harrison, the latter three without office. The new ministers will make a strong and capable administration. The house has adjourned until the 12th of April, and the new ministers go back for re-election, after which they will propose their measures and meet the house. His many friends on the Ontario press will congratulate Mr. Blair on his accession to power, and wish him a long and successful career.

"INDECENT LITERATURE." The Warter attributes Mr. Fairbairn's defeat to several things, and among others it says that "indecent literature towards the Catholic party was freely circulated in every Catholic house purporting to be from the Mail office and the Orange societies and no more villainous or untruthful sheets could have been prepared. These were skillfully used by Mr. George McHugh, Mr. Hugh McLeary and others who stand well with the large portion of the Catholic party, and the tremendous bugbear they succeeded in raising before the eyes of these innocents decided the election." The only sheets circulated by the reformers other than regular campaign papers, were a dozen or so of the conservative appeals to Catholics and a similar appeal in a totally different tone to Orangemen. The main points of these two appeals were printed in THE POST and stand in the light of day for the public to judge. The Warter correctly describes them as "villainous and untruthful." The fact is the conservatives were caught raising the sectarian cry, and the timely exposure of their unparliamentary tactics caused them great damage, as well in Rambo as in Verulam and Montpelier. The people of Downeyville have strong confidence in the Mowat government; they know Hon. Mr. Francis well, and respect and admire him; and having full confidence in Mr. McIntyre they gave him their hearty support. They were not to be swayed from their attachment to Hon. Mr. Francis even by the special appeals of Hon. John Gaultier.

EDITORIAL NOTES. Mr. McIntyre's majority is 30. The floods in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and other western states have been most disastrous and destructive, and have caused an appalling amount of suffering and misery. The overflowing has now moved down the Mississippi and its lower tributaries, and there the people are undergoing a dreadful ordeal. The Toronto World says: "The Mail claims Mr. John Gillies, the member-elect for North Bruce, as a conservative. Mr. Gillies is as much a conservative as the man seeing director of the Tory organ is a gin. The new member for North Bruce is an out-and-out liberal and will always be found supporting Mr. Mowat in every good measure."

A case involving the rights of the provincial legislatures to prohibit the sale of spirituous liquors on Sundays and on certain hours on other days is now before the supreme court at Ottawa, in the appeal of Poulis vs. the corporation of Quebec City. During the progress of the case Chief Justice Ritchie remarked that the legislature could exercise the right of restricting or restraining the sale of liquor, though the power of absolute prohibition rested with the federal parliament. Sir John Macdonald will do well to hasten slowly in his temperance legislation.

The Ontario Herald unkindly remarks that now that Mr. Peck has been defeated the editor of the Fenelon Falls Gazette "will have a poor show for gaining a government office. Mr. Mowat should appoint him a J. P., as he shows neither fear nor favor for the villagers of the Falls, or better still a pound keeper, as there seems no probability of his getting a crown land agency." The defeat of Mr. Peck will have no such result in this respect, and we copy the paragraph, ungenious as it is, for the purpose of saying very emphatically that no one deserves recognition as the hands of the reform party more than our contemporary at the Falls. He has all his life been a consistent reformer, and has very strong claims that ought not to be disregarded.

The Toronto Tribune says: "It is gratifying to us to find that five of the eight Catholic candidates placed in the field by the liberals have been returned to the legislature. Two of the three defeated were opposed by Catholic conservatives, and the third was beaten by the late conservative member. Thus it will be seen that these nominations were made in perfect good faith, that Catholics were not put forward by the reform party merely as stop-gaps for the purpose of running the campaign. Can our conservative friends give as good an account of the nine Catholic candidates which they claimed to have placed in the field? The returns show only four conservative Catholics elected, and of these three are but two who are Irish Catholics. There must have been something wrong with the 'massing,' and we call upon the Irish Canadian to rise and explain."

The Warter says the throwing of deayed eggs was a "characteristic" feature of Mr. McIntyre's election; and in the next breath it declares it was the "first display of such conduct" in Lindsay. Elsewhere it endeavors to put the blame on "some boys belonging to respectable reformers of Lindsay." This is ridiculous and absurd. The eggs are just as likely—in fact more likely—to have been thrown by the angry and disgusted conservatives who endeavored by force to put out the reform bonfire, and who threw too high at the crowd. This is one theory, and is not unreasonable. It would be unfair to hold the conservative party responsible for the anger and vehemence of a few impulsive spirits in their ranks, who in a rowdy way tried to put out the illumination. As to "respectable reform boys" doing the deed, we are informed that a mischievous youngster was seen throwing at the windows in question and was chased and caught. On investigation he was found to be conservative in his family surroundings and the act was properly considered one of pure mischief. No one connected with the reform party had anything to do with the annoying deeds in question; and the members of the reform party join us in condemning them.

The Kingston Whig says:—"We firmly believe that at no distant date there will be fully un-urged an electoral scandal as gigantic as that of the Pacific railway in 1872-73. It has been known for some time that Sir John Macdonald was determined to overthrow by fair means or foul the Mowat administration. The control of Ontario was necessary to the fulfillment of his scheme, and to control Ontario with a liberal government in power was impossible. He 'staked his political existence' on the result of the elections. He wrote hundreds, perhaps thousands; of appealing letters to men in France and elsewhere, he declared with a ludicrous earnestness which showed how deeply concerned he was in the result, that 'the fate of the confederation hung on the decision of the electors, he did a dozen different things, all of which proved conclusively—that everybody, however, knew before hand—that Sir John was thoroughly exasperated at the liberal long retention of office and thoroughly resolved that they should be ousted. Sir John Macdonald is not a man to stick at trifles. The distinguished hero of the Canada Pacific scandal, aided and abetted by Sir Eoghan O'Donnell, is equal to anything in a monetary way, and in this case his tactics may be compared, perceiving the absolute hopelessness of Mr. Meredith's case, seeing that in a fair contest, fought by provincial politicians on provincial issues, Mr. Mowat was sure to be overwhelmingly victorious, a different plan was resorted to." This plan was simply ly corruption on a vast and far-reaching scale. "Grip" has one of its finest cartoons on the result of the Ontario elections. "But then they rode back, but not, not the six hundred," the famous happy charge at Balaclava inspiring his happy thought. Messrs. Mowat, Pardee, Fraser, Hardy and Crooks are riding back from a heroic charge on the batteries commanded by John A. and Meredith. The local ministers are badly wounded and have sustained severe losses; but there can be no doubt as to the final result of the encounter. Another cartoon shows that "Sammy" Tuley has lost his hold on New Brunswick, and that Mr. Elder and Mr. Bar are driving the team. Grip gave a very good likeness of Mr. Elder.

We pause a moment in the rush and bustle of hurrying events to drop a briny tear on the political grave of Peter X. He was fired with a noble ambition to wrest Ontario from the bloody hands of the little tyrant Mowat, and ran "for the local. He was like Mowat in one respect: he would not "go" worth a cent, and when the sun went down on that red day in North Waterloo, Peter was seven or eight hundred behind and his scrutineers gave up counting. But though Peter is departed his memory will not be forgotten. His life is a bright and shining example of the way to make out a government advertising bill. In the words of the noble Plumb (was it not?):—"Lives of great men all remind us. We can make our lives sublime, And departing leave behind us Footprints (No. 14) on the sands of time."

The Fenelon Falls Gazette says:—"The Ontario assembly at its late sitting had the subject of erecting creameries in several suitable localities brought under its notice. Hon. S. C. Wood being a leading man in supporting the movement. There seemed to be but one opinion as to the propriety of some initial step being taken by the government to stimulate agriculturists to improve the quality of the butter made in the province. There is a crying need for this, as the quality upon the whole is far beneath what it ought to be, which damages the reputation of the province as to its capabilities, and moreover as the cause of an annual loss of several hundred thousand dollars. Those who do make a really first class article are not able to get the fair value of their butter, on account of the character which Ontario butter obtains in outside markets. It is well that some means be adopted in order to redeem its reputation; and be it by creameries where young women and men are taught the most approved methods, or by means of qualified instructors, if the quality is so improved as to attract merchants from a distance, the whole province will be the better for it. The upward movement required to set the standard, be repaid a hundred fold in a few years, if it should only have the effect of raising prices one cent per pound."

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitated to recommend Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction, are pure and safe, and medicine known and will positively cure kidney and liver complaints. Fully the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Send at fifty cents a bottle by A. Higginbotham."
