-This is a specimen despatch from New York on Saturday: Twenty thousand persons visited Long Branch yesterday. The great attraction was Mrs. Langtry bath-ing. That lady, accompanied by Freddie Gebhard, arrived from Coney Island by the 2.15 p.m. train, and 400 persons witnessed her antice in the water. She emerged from her bathing room dressed in an Olivette bathing costume of blue flannel trimmed with red. Mrs. Langtry swims with a long chest stroke. The crowd applauded her frequently, to which the lady smilingly responded by swimming under water and doing various other little oddities. Freddie stood looking on from the bluff dressed in a duck suit, white muslin tie and straw hat. He seemed to enjoy the applause immensely and was by no means sparing of it himself. The full perfection of Mrs. Langtry's figure was seen at its best in the new role she assumed as one of the godleanes of the sea. Her motions were easy and graceful, and altogether she was per-haps three quarters of an hour in the water. Upon resuming her walking attire she wore a tight-fitting steel-colored silk costume, a hat of similar material, strong thick boots and carried a light parasol.

The principal event of the week, so far as home politics are concerned, has been the result of the Monaghan election. The Nation says :- Throughout the length and the breadth of Ireland, and wherever Irishmen abide, the sincerest prayers were offered for victory. When the issue was announced every irish heart bounded for joy. The men of Monaghan have done an incalculable service to Ireland, which will incalculable service to Ireland, which will reverberate in every corner of the three kingdoms. The Freeman's Journal says:

The Monaghan election is a great victory for Ireland, and must give all lovers of the Irish popular cause great heart. It should enter deeply into the souls of both friends and foes. United Ireland says: The Nextendist nearth will now claim says: enter deeply into the souls of both friends and foes. United Ireland says: The Nationalist party will now claim seats in Tyrone, Derry, and Donegal. They will clear out both Tories and Liberals from every part of Ireland. There is now a complete union of the National party. Parnell has decided to contest every Ulster constituency, thinking that the Monaghan election is a test of victory for the Nationalist cause, and indicative of the triumph of the party throughout Ireland. Thomas Power O'Connor has offered to resign in consequence of his inability to live on his limited income and to support the necessary ted income and to support the necessary outlay of Parliamentary life.

Dentistry.

J. NEELANDS, Dentist. Over 20 years Experience.

Gold Alloy Plates

Dentistry revolutionized. Mr. Neelands announced some time ago that he was introducing this new kind of base for artificial teeth. He has now sufficiently experimented with this material, and he can with confidence recommend it to persons getting artificial teeth as perhaps one of the best materials ever used. It is a compound of the royal metals. No bismuth or antimony enters into its composition. The material is cast from a direct model of the mouth, therefore the finest lines of the mouth are accurately copied, thus securing a perfect fit. The thermal conductivity is such as to secure to the mucous membrane freedom from passive congestion so very common, even with black rubber and other common plates. Persons who wear it claim that they do not experience that hot feverish feeling in the mouth so usual with rubber plates. A leading dentist of New York stated before the dental association that he had worn every kind of a plate ever used and they had all felt more or less uncomfortable until he had worn this. There is but one other dentist in Canada at the present date, besides Mr. Neelands, who has secured the patent right to use this material, Teeth can be inserted on this plate at a price that will not much exceed rubber. This material can be used in conjunction with rubber. There is little doubt that before many years this will entirely supersede the common kinds of plates. GAS.—Teeth positively extracted There is little doubt that before many years this will entirely supersede the common kinds of plates. GAS.—Teeth positively extracted without a particle of pain. Mr. Neelands made a special study of this gas under Dr. Colton of New York, the inventor of gas for extracting teeth without pain, who has given it to over 130,000 persons without an accident. Electricity and Somnoline also used. Artificial teeth inserted from $10 to $60 for upper or under set. Office—next door to R. Smyth's store. May be found at private residence after hours, Mill-st. near Kent. Persons from a distance will please send postal card before coming.

W. H. GROSS, Dentist. Nearly 23 Years' Experience.

ENGLISH BLACK RUBBER PLATES.

During his dental practice of nearly twenty-three years Mr Gross's experience with the different materials used for dental plates has been expensive and varied, embracing every article on the list. At the beginning of his practice in 1869, Gold, Silver and Platina were about the only bases used for artificial teeth, Shortly after the above date, however, HARD RUBBER or Vulcanite, the article now in use; was brought to the notice of the dental profession in the United States, but its application to dentistry being a patent, and owned by the to dentistry being a patent, and owned by the Goodyear Dental Vulcanite Company, of Boston, who demanded from each dentist an annual tax varying in amount from $50 to $500 for the privilege of using it, the material did not at that time come into general use. With a at that time come into general use. With a view of producing a substitute for rubber, many experiments were made, and in due time a number of compounds, mostly metallic, and some said to contain gold, appeared in the market. These new candidates for preferment in the dental laboratory were successively and fairly tested with a long that some one of them. fairly tested with a hope that some one of them would meet the demand, but they were in turn condemned as totally unfit to be worn in the mouth. Settlements were now made with the Vulcanite company on the best terms possible, and a large majority of dentists commenced the use of rubber. There are two kinds of rubber used for dental plates, viz.,

BLACK AND RED.

The black is seventy five per cent. of pure rub-The black is seventy five per cent, of pure rubber, and twenty five per cent, of sulphur, the sulphur being added to cause the mass to harden in the vulcanizing process. The red is but fifty per cent, of rubber, twenty-five per cent, of sulphur, and twenty-five per cent of the sulphuret of mercury, overmillion. With these facts before their eyes, people need not be in doubt as to which of the two varieties of sulphurets of the supply day in its

was a subject of debate at meetings of dental societies everywhere, and the conclusions then reached were such as to cause a great many dentists to discontinue its use, and substitute good black rubber, which they are still using with the greatest satisfaction both to themselves and their patrons. Thousands of people who have been not only annoyed, but actually tortured by the attempted use of red rubber and other injurious plates, are to-day wearing black rubber plates with p'easure never before known during their experience with artificial is non-irritant and non-conducting, and consequently is in perfect harmony with the tissues with which it comes in contact, and therefore cannot produce congestion or any other disease of the mucous membrane of the mouth. hot, feverish sensation is never complained of by persons wearing black rubber plates. They contain nothing to cause any such sensation. The mercury in red rubber, and some one of the poisonous ingredients antimony, probably, in all metallic compounds and alloys, are the active agents in producing such unpleasant feelings in the mouth. Mr. Gross challenges any man, in or out of Lindsay, to prove to the any man, in or out of Lindsay, to prove to the contrary of this. Occasionally a person is met with who cannot wear a pure gold plate on account of the action of the solvents of the mouth upon it. In such cases, black rubber plates are worn without the slightest trouble. Unfortunately for dentistry, there are too many restless vacillating mortals in its ranks. Unfortunately for dentistry, there are too many restless, vacillating mortals in its ranks, with irresistible hankerings after everything that is new, regardless of its merits. A humburg called a "gold alloy plate," is the latest with the local member of the class above referred to. This "gold alloy plate," as he himself acknowledges, is the same that was advertised a short time ago as a "white metal plate." This second instalment of conflicting statements is calculated still further to mystify, and should second installment of collecting statements is calculated still further to mystify, and should be explained. Mr. Gross fearlessly asserts, and will prove to the satisfaction of any sane person, that this wonderful vehicle of "thermal conductivity" does not contain a single grain of gold, but like the Weston metal. single grain of gold, but like the Weston metal, adamantine base, etc., etc., is composed of tin, bismuth, and kindred metals. Mr. Gross also asserts that it is not a patent, any dentist being at perfect liberty to use it, simply by purchasing the material. Mr. Gross had experience years ago with all these metallic compounds and alloys, and with others abandoned them as totally unfit for use. It was found that in a majority of cases the acidity of the secretions of the mouth was so marked as the secretions of the mouth was so marked as to produce a very unpleasant galvanic action on comingin contact with a them, besides leaving a disagreeable metallic taste in the mouth. Do not be decired by anything called a "gold alloy be deceived by anything called a "gold alloy plate." It is a delusion, and employed, probably, as a temporary hiding place for the man who has been fairly and squarely vanquished in the rubber argument. Parties about to provide themselves with artificial teeth, and who wan Something Perfectly Reliable, have a choice between but three materials, viz. Genuine Gold, Platina or Black Rubber. Th Genuine Gold. Platina or Black Rubber. The last named material is preferred by many to Gold or Platina and in some respects is superior to either of them, and is furnished at about one-fourth of their price. Every Black Rubber plate sent out by Mr. Gross serves as a certificate in their favor. One of the best dentists in Philadelphia lately remarked that Black Rubber was one of mechanical dentistry's best friends and would never go out of date. Mr. Gross will insert Artificial Teeth or Red Rubber, or any of the Metallic Compounds or Alloys for persons who want them after their injurious nature has been fully explained. Get your plate of some good material and you will have no cause for regrets. The best is always the cheapest in the end.

Liquified Nitrous Oxide Gas. Mr. Gross was the first in Lindsay to use gas in this pure and improved form. Persons tak-ing it say it is like inhaling pure atmospheric air. The patient remains longer under its in-fluence, which is certainly an advantage, as more teeth can be extracted by it in the same time than by the common laughing gas. It is the purest, safest and most reliable form of

This is an old preparation under a new name, and was used as early as 1850. It is composed of Tinct. of Aconite, Chloroform and Alcohol, each an ounce, with a few grains of Morphine added. It is said to have a numbing effect upon the gums, and sometimes gives slight relief in tooth extracting.
