The Rural Post. LINDSAY, FRIDAY, AUGUST 10, 1883. FARM AND FRESIDE.

Shropshire-Downs in Peterborough County. We are pleased to learn that Mr. John Carnegie, M. P., of the Peterboro Review, has introduced this fine breed of sheep into our neighbouring county.

favorite breed of both countries. We may mention as an evidence of how things come about that it was purely by accident that Lord Polworth came to be a breeder of Shropshires.

How to Treat the Tired Horse. Some excellent advice as to the treatment of a horse exceptionally tired because of extra demand upon his strength is given by two veterinary correspondents of an English farm paper.

DEATH OF THE CARRIAGE WORKS.—Secretary Shaffer, of the Iowa agricultural society, says the cabbage worm has destroyed whole fields and acres of cabbages, and the remedies of lime, ashes, brine, salt, and lye, have been failures.

SQUASHES FOR HOGS.—A New York farmer has found that an acre of the Hubbard squash will fatten more hogs than any corn which could be raised on the same ground.

"DOCTORING" FARM ANIMALS.—It is a poor practice to be continually dosing animals. When we see a farmer frequently visiting the drug store for medicine for his stock, the impression is that there is something radically wrong in his management.

Minor Farm Topics. FEEDING OATS TO COWS.—An Iowa farmer gives his experience of feeding oats to cows last winter.

INCUBATORS.—A poultry fancier, characterized by Mr. Carman as "one of the finest in America," declares in as many words that "incubators are a failure."

UNDER-DRAINED MEADOWS.—Captain J. B. Moore, Concord, Mass., took this season two tons per acre of herbage and timothy hay from an underdrained meadow six years seeded.

REMEDY FOR HEAVES.—One of the best remedies for heaves in horses is to feed with their grain or meal once a day the following mixture: Three grains arsenious acid, one drachm bicarbonate of potash, one-half drachm iodide of potassium, and two drachms of ground ginger.

REMEDY FOR WIND GALLS.—An American farm paper says, in answer to a correspondent:—For the windgalls on the leg of your colt apply strong astringent lotions, oak bark and alum, also bandages wet with the same lotion.

THE OREGONIAN.—The Oregonian says that the work of improving the water supply for the deaf and dumb institute at Belleville is progressing satisfactorily. The two sewers have been united by means of cross drains, and the whole drainage is now discharged to the east of the water pipe.

A Great Story.—A daily bringing joy to the hearts of those who are daily passing by the graves of those who have passed on.

MIDLAND DISTRICT NOTES. —The Otusbee river is low, and getting lower. —Building operations are brisk at Parry Sound.

—A Canada thistle eleven feet in height is the boast of a Hunterville man's garden. —The council of Pictou are asking the ratepayers to vote $6,000 for street improvement.

—The knights of labor of Ontario have passed a resolution at a recent meeting that each member should contribute $1 per week to the striking telegraphers.

—The Cannington Gleener says: "A rather novel proceeding has been witnessed during services in the Methodist church in this village on more than one occasion. A certain individual selects the time of the first prayer to wind a watch, thus disturbing the devotions of those near. Perhaps it is done to let the world know that the party referred to has a watch."

—The Hastings Star says that while Mr. Richard Healey, who lived a few miles north of Norwood, was returning to his village from the farm on Tuesday of last week, and driving a pair of spirited horses attached to a wagon on which there were a few loose boards forming the bottom, the horses took fright and threw Mr. Healey off, the wheel passing over him.

—The Port Hope Guide states that Mrs. Richard Healey, mother of Mrs. Richard Healey and Mrs. Geo. Healey, died on Saturday of last week, at the age of 70 years. She had been suffering for years past to secure the pension that was justly her due.

—The Markham Economist gives the subjoined further particulars of dastardly outrages committed two miles south of Schowberg on the 6th inst., and already briefly noted in THE POST: On that day Robert Mark, a farmer residing on lot 24 in the town of King, noted that one of his heavy draught horses was very sick, and at once sent for W. C. Carley, veterinary surgeon, of Tottenham.
