OBITUARY. In one of his finest poem Longfellow says:-

Our lives are rivers gliding free
To that unfathomed boundless sea.
The silent grave;

In one dark wave. These lines were forcibly brought to my mind on Wednesday last upon learning of the death of one of our most respected residents Mrs. Jas. Colvin; which sad event took place on Tuesday evening last inst. On the following Thursday the remains were followed to their last resting place by a large circle of friends to what is known as the Graham's burying ground, near Bethany. Mrs. Colvin it can truly be said was a loving mother, an affectionate friend, rector of St. Mary's church, delivered a very solemn and impressive sermon at the family residence. His text was taken from Cor., 15th chap., as St Paul says, "Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord." The deceased was about 30 years of age at the time of her death, and leaves a large family to mourn

[Correspondence of The Post.] CONCERT.-The concert in aid of the English church tund was held in the town hall, Sunderland, on the evening of the 10th and was the great success of the season. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. The programme was a very attractive one and was faultlessly rendered. The opening piece, an organ chorus, was taken part in by the Misses Porritt, Poole, Noble and Brian, and gave evidence of first class training. The second piece, a glee, "All among the barley," by the Cannington choir, was sung with good effect and elicit ed outbursts of applause. The next, a solo by Mr. Herchfelder of Cannington, "Friend of the brave" fully sustained that gentle man's reputation as a musician of high culture: A humorous reading by Mr. Ardell of Toronto was well received and rapturously encered. The next, was a solo by Miss Elliot of Cannington. Any comm at had been cleared Mr. E. Woollard was on this young lady's musical abilities is needless as her popularity as a first-class rocalled to the chair and opened the vocalist has long been established. A duet by Miss Elliot and Mr. Hershfelder closed Farncomb who sang the "Fine old English" the first part of the programme. At this juncture the most pleasing part of the entertainment took place. It was the presentation by the parishioners of Sunderland to Mr. Lloyd of Toronto, who officiated in place of the Rev. Mr. Bryan during his abplace of the Rev. Mr. Bryan during his absence in the old country. The gift was a purse of thirty-five dollars and the presentation was made by Mr. Bryan in behalf of the congregation, Mr. Lloyd was completely taken by surprise and tendered his thanks to the congregation for their generosety. The second part of the programme opened with an organ chorus by the same performers as in the first part. Glees were sauge by the Misses Fletcher, Elliot and Brandon, two rising singers, was well received. The accompaniuments were played about thirty-five years of age, 5 ft. 6 in. in height, dark hair, very large black moustache, swarthy complexion. He was last seen by his housekeeper on Friday night. He came into the house and changed his clothing for the oldest apparet he had. There are two children left in the house in an almost destitute condition. When I was in the Factory before, I sold all I could make at retail and I want to do it again, and will do my part to give satisfaction. I would also state that I have not taken any of the old Goods so that everything sold will be this year's make.

ABOUT MONEY.

In buying the factory I need money. There is money owing to me that should be paid. The fact is it must be paid, and I want all to settle up as soon as possible; and also wish to convey the idea that in future there will be no credit given retail, either at the Store or Factory, as I can sell goods fully ten per cent. cheaper when I do not have to keep a book-keeper and lose no accounts.

Hoping to see my old customers and lots of new ones, I am, yours truly,

Mrs. Powers has been ailing for months past, but under skillful treatment she seemed to be recovering until about three weeks ago, when she went for a visit to Mrs. McCall's, her sister, where she was taken very ill; but after several days severe illness she recovered that she was brought to her own home, where she died. The funeral took place at 1.30 p. m. on Sunday, which was attended by a very large concourse of friends and acquaintances who followed the remains to the Methodist burying ground. The family have the deepest heartfelt sympathy of the people in this

[Correspondence of The Post.] SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY AND

HARVEST HOME. - On the afternoon of Thursday, the 11th inst., a goodly number of the children of St. John's Sunday school assembled on the church grounds to enjoy their annual games and also to attend the harvest home, to which they were kindly invited by the churchwardens, Messrs. W.H. Cassidy and John Kennedy. The disposal of a liberal distribution of candy; swinging; racing and ball playing occupied them until the arrival of the Rev. Mr. Farncomb, B. A., incumbent of Dunsford and Bobcavgeon, who conducted a thanksgiving service and preached one of the most interesting and appropriate sermons that has ever been listened to by a Dunsford audience. Mrs. Farncomb led the singing and presided at the organ, and we record with pleasure that since the advent of Mr. and Mrs. Farncomb in our midst a marked improvement has taken place both in the musical part of our church service and general church attendance, the latter assertion being most posttive proof that our clergymen and his wife are the right persons in the right place. Long may they be spared to occupy it, is the sincere prayer of the congregation of St. John's. At the close of the service the assembly adjourned to the Orange hall and partook of an excellent tea provided by the ladies of the church. As the ladies of the church are proverbial for their liberality at such times, the highest culogy we can give them is that their efforts on Thursday evening were equal to Farncomb who sang the "Fine old English gentleman" and on being encored sang "Tis a motto for every man." Mr. J. H. Knight, P. S.I., read a piece entitled "Jane Courtney" and received well merited applause Mrs. Farncomb, Mr. John Lee of Lindsay, the Misses Kennedy of Emily, Miss Edith Burnett, the Misses Kennedy of Verulam and Miss Curley favoured the andience with songs and were loudly and visiting her brothers Messrs. David and Thomas Sheriff of Dunsford. NEW BARN.—Mr. David Sheriff has raised the frame of a new para, stable and cattle shed all under one roof. This is self-evident proof that Davie is prospering.
