A good deal of uncertainty is attached to the authorship of a late and now celebrated novel. Almost every town throughout the states is claiming that the writer is "one of that r best known and most respected citizens." In Canada Peterboro papers have not yet appropriated the honor for the burg. In order to get ahead of Peterboro—which can be easily done we now nominate Mr. John Hart wick as the author of "The Brend Winners."

On the second page of this week's issue will be found a beautiful and touching poem—an appeal on behalf of the homeless and onceatchild-ren of London, kng. The writer of the poem is Miss Millle Sanderson of Peterboro, sister of Mr. M. Sanderson of Lindsay. Miss Sanderson was appointed manager of the new home for these waifs, the gift of Mr. Geo. A. Cox. at Peterboro, and known as one of Dr. Barnado's homes for English orphans and outcast child-ren. Previous to assuming her duties Miss Sanderson went last year to London to learn by personal observation just what was needed and to see into the practical workings of the system. The poem has had a wide circulation in the English press, and will no doubt be reprinted throughout the province.

A merchant of Uttawa retired from business the other day, and in his validictory Mr. Anfield asys: "To the press of Ottawa I must say that their help was invaluable, and for every dollar spent in informing the public of new lines of goods brought forward, or the changes in price, the benefit is four-fold to the advertiser." The Free Press says Mr. Ashfield was one of the most liberal paterns, and during his business career paid several hundreds of dollars yearly in advertising. He has always paid one hundred cents on the dollar, and has now vousfarily retired from hustness. His testimony and experience will be found identical with that of all enterprising and successful merchants who have advertised largely, although they are not neways so ready to admit the assistance derived from this course.

The musical engagement which took place

rom this course.

The musical engagement which took place between the band and the salvation army on Friday afternoon was one of these delightful enseden which go to make life worth living. The band were playing at the corner of Kent and William sts. The army, marching up Williamet, saw at once there was an opportunity to achieve a victory. Despite the crowd surrounding, and who seted in a most good-humored way, the army, headed by drums and fies, marchest found and round the band. The effect—the musical effect—can be imagined. There was a most outrageous din, and people living in the vicinity heatily shut down the windows of their dwellings and plugged their cars with heating. Many took to the woods. It was a clear case of lungs against brace. The referees have not yet handed in their decision as to which side won.

The Peterboro school board have adopted and forwarded to the teachers of that town a resolution setting forth that "it is desirable that all the feachers in the service of the board should use every effort, by precapt and example, to check the ties of vulgar and slang expressions," and that the "board is of opinion that the teachers passing to the constitute any countenance from the teachers, passing are unfortunately prome to pass," Probably it would do no herm for our hoard to adopt a similar resolution, though naturally, as there is more culture and refinement here, the evil cannot be so great as in Peterboro.... It would be an improvement if all teachers were to write in their recount the proper Christian names and set the diminustives that are opministy used. On Wednesday and Thursday of this week grand general opening of millinery, mantles and fancy goods was held at the City Dry-goods and fancy goods was held at the City Dry-goods and Clothing House, the well-known emportum of Sootheran, Cathro & Mark. Despite the unfavorable weather the capacious store was througed. The large millinery room up-stairs was most tastefully dressed, the brilliant and attractive goods appearing to great advantage. Many novelties in the line of millinery matters were shown and the character of the season's fashious could be told at a glance, so well were the tempting fabrics displayed. The House has every reason to feel flattered at the very successful opening just held and to be gratified with encontume pronounced by visitors and customers on the beauty and extent of the stock.

Publicity was given to the announcement by a large advt. in The Post, although Mr. Graham did not issue the usual opening card. An opening day extends to ladies an opportunity to view the resources of the millinery department and incidentally to pass a pleasant hour among the choice and handsome goods always on show at Graham's opening. Crowds of visitors visited the millinery rooms and the occasion was one of the most successful. General comment gave the unqualified opinion that the stock is very full and complete and that no lady could pessify err in making her selections from such a varied assortment. The rooms were trimmed and decorated with great taste and the display showed that rare shill and excellent judgment had governed the selection of the stock. The department is under the management of Miss Glass, who will be favorably remembered by her many customers of last season.

—The sporting fraternity of the town met at the opera house on Tuesday night to witness the "assault-at-arms." The crowd though not large was appreciative. A "set-to" het ween Thos. Fee and Thos. Sadler opened the proceedings, followed by an exhibition wrestling match between the local champion, R. N. Harrison, and A. C. Ross of Cobourg. In this bout Harrison showed to advantage as a wrestler. The six-round sparring match between Wm. We owe an apology to the Gas Co. The gas at this end of the town Monday night of last very light pressure. This was noted in THE Post; but we forgot that at the time the town council was in session at the other end of the street. There was consequently a large con-sumption of gas at that end, and all the "pressure" went in that direction.

A COMPACT AND TRUTHFUL STORY

FOR BUYERS OF BLACK SILK.

It is an absolute rule with all manufacturers of BLACK SILKS who have acquired a reputation for reliable goods to stamp their own firm's name and trade mark on their best goods only, because they are made from pure stock and tested dyes, and on their second and third qualities made from impure stock and adulterated dyes, they stamp in large gilt letters some fancy name such as "Lyons Gros Grain", "French Gros Grain", "Italian Gros Grain", &c. The manufacturer thus evades the responsibility of his seconds and thirds so stamped, which, it the maker's name was known, would completely kill his reputation.

When buying Black Silks ask your merchant to show you the maker's name stamped in gold or gilt letters. If he cannot do this and insists that his is the genuine quality nevertheless because it is stamped in flaming gilt letters "Lyons Gros Grain" warranted pure, or some other fancy brand, ask him why the manufacturer does not acknowledge it as such by stamping his own firm's name and trade mark thereon. Every sensible person knows that a good article enhances a man's reputation, and a manufacturer is proud to acknowledge such by endorsing it with his name and trade mark, but a poor article, admitted as such by the omission of his name and trade mark, if traced home to him would ruin his business and reputation as a manufacturer of Silks.—Thereby hangs a tale, which the sooner it is understood by the public will the sooner and more effectually remove the very great complaints of the glossing and cutting of Black Silks.

Our Black Silks are guaranteed by the maker's name and trade mark, and our prices for the acknowledged first quality are lower than any quotations we have yet seen for Seconds or Fancy Brands which are not guaranteed by the endorsation of the manufacturer.—No Black Silk is pure without the manufacturer's name. Our stock is the largest and best assorted we have ever shown suitable for either Mantles or Dresses, and we respectfully ask you to consider carefully the above remarks and reason them out for yourself. We invite inspection and comparison of prices, feeling assured that the verdict will be in our favor.

Printed Silk Pongees, the latest and newest goods in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, can only be had in Lindsay at the City Store. Soliciting your vote, influence and patronage for the City Store, we are yours respectfully,
