I am the most agreeably surprised man in this section of country. I don't think anyone could feel worse physically than I did when I commenced taking Crowfoot Bitters. It has made a new man of mc. BUTTER AND EGGS.—Immense quantities of butter and eggs are being shipped from here almost daily. These products have risen to be a very important consideration to the farmer, and every year is likely to improve the market. If better care was exercised in the manufacture of butter greater satisfaction would result to both the buyer and seller. We have seen butter brought to the stores and purchased for a good price which should ratherhave been fit for soap grease that a better price is not obtained. First class butter always commands a good value, but trask should not be accepted—it is dear at any price.—[Express.—A New Peer has made its appearance and is rapidly destroying the balsam tree of this locality. The trees put on the appearance of death, and on investigation it is discovered the leaves have all been partially severed from the stem by a green worm about half an inch in length, and very voracious. We observed a fine grove a few days ago which had the appearance of being completely killed, and on inspection dicovered the trees covered with this worm.—[Express.

Some of the hot liquid metal used in casting flew and struck him in the eye. At the first it was feared the sight would be destroyed. He was getting better and he had returned to work, when on Wednesday he received another serious injury, in which he had a narrow escape of losing his life. He was grinding mould-boards on the grindstone when a fill pound weight, which for some purpose was hanging above him, became unhooked and fell, striking him on the head and inflicting an ugly gash. If the blow had been two inches nearer the centre of the head it would asnearer the centre of the head it would assuredly have killed him. Under skiiful medical treatment he is mending nicely.—

READ AND REMIT.—A level headed newspaper man comes down as follows:—We presume that some people think that newspaper men are persistent duns; let a farmer place himself in a similar position and see if he would not do the same. Suppose he raised a crop of one thousand bushels of wheat, and his neighbor would come to buy a bushel, and the price was only the small sum of two dollars, or less, and the neighbor says, "I will pay you the sum in a few days." As the farmer don't want to be small in the matter he says "all right." Another comes in the same way until the small in the matter he says "all right."
Another comes in the same way until the whole one thousand bushels are gone out to one thousand different persons, and not one of the purchasers concerns himself about it for it is a small amount he owes the farmer and of course that could not help him any. He does not realize that the farmer has frittered away his crop of wheat in little dribbles, and that he is seriously embarrased in his business because his debtors treat it as a little matter. But if all would pay him promptly, which they all would pay him promptly, which they could as well as not, it would be a very large amount to the farmer and enable him to carry on his business without difficulty. The above comparison it too true of the difficulties that a newspaper man has to contend with.

A STRANGE DISCOVERY.—We notice while looking over the Warder of the 4th inst. that his correspondent from Sandringham made a statement that law was good for man and beast. This must be a new discovery by that "Bohea" that styles himself the Warder correspondent. Assessment Apphal.—The township of Seymour has successfully appealed from the county rate of $1,092, fixed by the county council at the June session. The amount paid for some years has been only $800. Judge Clarke last Wednesday after hearing the evidence and arguments of council reduced the rate from $1,092 to $679, the difference, $413, to be divided ratesbly amongst the municipalities not appealing and added to their county rate. Moral—Look after your assessment.

Moral—Look after your assessment.

The Eagleson Family Group.—A Co-Moral—Look after your assessment.

The Eaglisson Family Group.—A Cobourg photographer has taken a large photograph of a very interesting group, consisting of the progenitors of the numerous Eagleson family of this district. In the group were, in the order of their ages, William, John, James, David, Matthew, Eleanor (Mrs. Creighton), Mary (Mrs. Close, Harwood), and Robert, the entire family, who landed with their father and mother in Cobourg on the 31st May, 1832. When they arrived fifty-two years ago Cobourg presented a far different appearance from what it does now. The business portion of the town was small, and what are now thickly populated parts of it had only a few scattered residences. The family did not remain in the town, but settled on a farm a little west of Coldsprings. To these eight members of the family have been born fifty-three children, forty of whom are living, and they have probably as many grandchildren. The Eaglesons are good conservative stock with one exception, we believe, always casting their votes on that side. They, with the Rosevears, another large family of this district with tion, we believe, always casting their votes on that side. They, with the Rosevears, another large family of this district, with whom they are closely connected, are a power to the conservative party and could have turned more than one election here had they forsaken their party. But then they are not of the forsaking kind.—[Sentinel-Star.

BOBCAYGEON. WOOL.—The wool cut of the year was a very good one, though the price was extremely low. A Verulam farmer sold a last year's lamb last Thursday for $5.50 and had previously sheared from it twelve pounds of wool. This country is peculiarly adapted for sheep and stock raising and when properly managed and well taken care of are productive of good results.

THE HAY CROP.—The bulk of the hay crop is now housed. Taken on the whole the crop is short, but not as short as said. Old meadows on high ground are certainly light, but low ground, new meadows, and fields mixed with clover have been much lighter than they are this year. There is a ighter than they are this year. There is a fair quantity of old hay on hand, and though the price may go up a little we are far from a hay famine.

ACCIDENT.— William Anderson managed to lose the first finger of his right hand at the Little Bob shingle mill last week. He was working at the splitting saw, a circuwas working at the splitting saw, a circular one, that whirls around utterly regardless of consequences. In pushing the block of wood to the saw he let his finger overlap the saw. Anderson did not feel the slightest pain and was surprised to notice his hand bleeding. The finger was picked up twenty feet away. Two other fingers were cut, but will retain their use. He is progressing favorably.

FROGS AND WORMS.—These are two fine openings—vawning openings—languishing openings—yawning openings—languishing for need of a little enterprise. Our Yankee cousins just dote on frogs' legs, and pay from 25c. to 75c. a pound for them in New York. Now we have acres of water exactly the thing for raising frogs. Why couldn't pends be fenced in with wire netting and frogs regularly grown, fed and fatted. And then there is no reason why they couldn't be very much improved. The frog in his present state runs to croak, which is not worth a cent, and not enough to legs, which fetch a good price. Now, attention to the breeding of cattle produces great results in hind quarters, and it is altogether probable that proper attention altogether probable that proper attention in the same direction with the frogs might cause them to run less to croak and tum tum and more to legs. There is money in it, and that is the consideration of the day. And then there is a great opening in worms. Everyone who has been here fishworms. Everyone who has been here fishing has gone into ecstacies over our fish, but everyone speak most disparagingly of our worms. They say they are the thinnest, slimmest worms that could possibly exist. This won't do. The village dignity should not permit this. Some one should take this in hand, and let it be seen that Reheavered can produce worms just as Bobcaygeon can produce worms just as large, as long and as plump as any other place—worms that will make a drowsy base snap his eyes with delight and his jaws with sorrow.—[Independent.

Your successful work amongst your own people in the interest of temperance and virtue is best known to and appreciated by them, but it has not been unobserved or unvalued by those not of your fold, while your co-operation in general works of charity and benevolence and your courteous consideration and respect for the views of those differing from you in religious belief, have merited and received the approval of all with whom you have been brought in contact. We beg to express the hope that you may yet see your way to a reconsideration of your decision to leave Port Hope, and that you may still spend many useful and pleasant years among us.
