Millinery and Carpets.

From Millinery to Carpets may seem abrupt transition. Yet it's not so abrupt as it may seem. The one lends a grace and charm to the face, but the other is grateful to the eye and mighty comforting to the feet.

Let us first say our say about MILLINERY. Despite the somewhat backward season our trade is prospering. We push the department and find it pays to push it well. Look up our Millinery room and make your enquiries of there's

Our goods are just as new, just as fresh and just as attractive as at the commencement of the season. When you buy from us you have the benefit of a choice from the results of enterprise and skill. We bring in the goods, our customers

We've all the shapes. They are made up from the newest, most fashionable and most suitable materials in the most thorough manner, with the richest effect, with the most careful attention as to finish, and with a view to giving you the very best value for the very least money.

All Millinery goods kept in stock and sold at the usual low rates

CARPETS.

We can hardly remember the time-and we've a fairly good memory-that our carpet department has offered so much of variety, real worth and beauty as it does at present-and at small cost, too.

We have a fine range of qualities. A fine range of patterns. A fine range makes, textures and values. A fine range in everything that makes a Carpet a Carpet worth having. We've Tapestry, Hall and Stair Carpet, completely ready to till every want, large or small—a carpet for a Mansion, or a carpet for a Kitchen if you need it. And in all the largest, the richest, and best selected range of patterns we've ever offered.

Our prices for carpets are low. They could not well be lower. If you've any doubt and you need a carpet give us the opportunity to sell to you.

Perris's Golden Eagle.

The window of Mr. Perrin's drug store, Lindsay, is adorned with a magnificent golden eagle one of the largest and finest of its kind. The bird was caught in a trap on the shores of Gull take last winter by a trapper of that region. It measures between seven and eight feet from tip to tip when stretched out. It has been carefully prepared by a skilful faxidermist, and attracts great deal of notice. In its eyes may be noticed a look of deep regret—that if it had only had a lew bottles of P.T.C. that winter it would not have been caught in the trap and would still be a bird of freedom. The moral is obvious.

A very successful garden party was held on Monday evening at the residence of Mr. F. C. Taylor, Millest. The fine grounds were very handsomely decorated and the illumination was very fine. The garden party was given in the interests or the laries and society of the Methodist church. Refreshments were provided of berries, ice cream and cake, and the Chizens' band played a capital program of music in good atgle. A large number were present and the garden party was certainly one of the most successful of the season.... A special word of prise is due the illumination which appeared to great advantage despite the wind that interfered to some extent with the success.

The revised bible is now fairly before the public and is received with great favor. It is probable that the new book will gradually find its way into the Sabbath schools of the country, replacing the edition of the scriptures now in use. As the present quarterly series of the International Sabbath school Lessons have been framed on the old bible teachers and scholars should provide themselves with copies of the new effition and by comparison learn wherein changes have been made. Porter, the bookler of Lindsay, has a large assortment of various styles of the revised bibles. Some of the editions are very cheap in price and yet excellent, clear-printed, well cased books. During the storm of Sunday afternoon last the house of Rev. & Weston-Jones was struck by lightning at the study chimney. The current ran down the side of the chimney and divided at the corner of the verandah following, apparently, the galvanized from waterpipe. The verandah over the front door was badly wrecked, the roof being torn off and fragments thrown in all directions. A part of the current followed the water pipes around to the back of the house and expended a part of its force in tearing a great hole in the brick of the kitchen wall. In the study at the time were Rev. Mr. Jones and Rev. J. Jones of Minden....

During last week the Lindsay cance club through Mr. C. E. L. Porteous, the energetic president, completed arrangements and purchased from the Grand Trunk railway authorities the boat-house and lot arisining the club boat-house. More room, as the club is growing rapidly, was imperatively needed. When the new purchase is fitted up it will give room for fifty additional canoes. The membership of the club own over eighty cances, and by providing proper and yet not expensive accommodation the number will be largely increased.
